1. One day when Uncle Wiggily was out early to see the sun rise, he passed a rocky ledge from which hung many icicles. As the sun shone on the sticks of ice they turned all the colors of the rainbow. "How wonderful!" exclaimed the bunny. "Who made them?" A little chap beside him said: "I did! I am Jack Frost. And, because you have been kind to me, I'll give you the power to make icicles!"

2. "Whenever you wish to make icicles," Jack Frost told Uncle Wiggily, "just push the squirt gun. Out will come water, and by magic power it will freeze into icicles." The bunny thought this would be fine. So he hopped through the woods. Soon he came to a deep ravine he wished to cross, but there was no bridge and it was a long way around. "I'll try Jack Frost's trick now," said Uncle Wiggily.

3. Out of the magic Jack Frost gun squirted water. It fell and froze, making a bridge of icicles across the gully. "Ha! This is just fine!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, crossing the ice bridge. He did not see the bad Fox looking after him. "What game is that rabbit up to now?" growled the Fox. "I must follow and see. He has made a bridge where there was none before. I can cross after him and catch him!"

4. Having crossed the icicle bridge, Uncle Wiggily kept on until he came to the home of Uncle Butter the goat. "Help me down, Uncle Wiggily!" he bleated. "I was mending a leak in my roof, and the Old Fox came along and took my ladder." The bunny said he would help his friend, and pointed the squirt gun. "Oh, I said HELP me—not SHOOT me!" cried Uncle Butter, and Mr. Longears just laughed.

5. "I'm not going to shoot you!" said Uncle Wiggily. "This is Jack Frost's magic icicle gun. I'll make a ladder for you!" So the bunny did, and the goat gentleman came safely down. The Bad Old Fox, who had stolen the ladder away, thinking it would help him catch Uncle Wiggily, peeked around the corner. "I wonder how I can get that rabbit?" thought the Fox, as the bunny was about to hop on.

6. After having helped Uncle Wiggily down off the roof, the bunny traveled on with the magic Jack Frost squirt gun. Soon he came to where Mrs. Twistytail the pig lady lived. "Oh such trouble!" squealed the pig lady. "My clothes sticks are gone and all my nice clean clothes will sag down in the dirt!" Uncle Wiggily made ready the gun. "I'll freeze some icicle clothes sticks for you, Mrs. Twistytail," he said.

7. "Icicle clothes sticks! I never heard of such things!" squealed Floppy, the little piggie chap who was using the rake to help his mother hold up the line. "It can't be done!" declared Curly. "I'll soon show you!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. He squirted three or four streams of water up in the air. When the water froze it turned into icicles, and the pig lady used them to hold up the sagging lines.

8. Having done a kind act for Mrs. Twistytail, by making icicle clothes sticks, Uncle Wiggily hopped along. He was tramping through the woods when, all of a sudden, the bad Fuzzy Fox ran out from behind a bush. "Now I have you!" he howled. "You can't get away!" Uncle Wiggily pointed his magic gun. "Ha! Ha! I'm not afraid of a bit of water!" snickered the Fox. "You can't do anything!"

9. All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily began to squirt streams of water from Jack Frost's magic gun. Up and down the bunny made icicles in the air, their ends resting on the ground, until he had made a cage with bars of ice all about the Fox. "Let's see you get me now!" laughed the bunny, as he started for his bungalow. "Fooled again!" howled the Fox. "Who would think he could freeze me in like this?"

UNCLE WIGGILY WAS SO VERY KIND HE LOANED HIS UMBRELLA. AND WHEN THE 'GATOR CAME ALONG, THE BUNNY FED THE HUNGRY "FELLAH." REALLY HE DID!

1. Uncle Wiggily hopped out one day to have an adventure, and, as it looked cloudy when he started he took his umbrella. The rabbit gentleman had not hopped very long before it began to April shower. "I'll just hoist my umbrella," said the bunny. He was going along when he noticed Aunt Lettie, the goat lady, without an umbrella. "Oh, please take mine!" begged the bunny. "I like to get wet!"

2. "Oh, thank you!" bleated Aunt Lettie. "But can't we both walk under this umbrella?" Uncle Wiggily said no, as he wasn't going her way. The bunny was getting quite wet when up hopped Mr. Croaker. "Here is a large toadstool for you, Uncle Wiggily," grunted Mr. Croaker. "You may use that for an umbrella. I am used to the rain." Uncle Wiggily thanked the toad, and looked at Mrs. Twistytail.

3. Uncle Wiggily had not been under the toadstool umbrella very long before Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady, came along, with nothing to keep the April showers off her new bonnet. "Oh, please take this toadstool!" begged the rabbit uncle. "I don't need it." Mrs. Twistytail said he was very kind, and invited him to walk under it with her, but he was going the other way. "I like to get wet," he said politely.

4. Uncle Wiggily hopped along in the rain without an umbrella, when, all of a sudden, he heard a voice say: "Quack! Quack! Quack! Come over here, Mr. Longears, and I'll give you a Japanese parasol we don't need. We ducks just live in the water." The bunny thanked Mrs. Wibblewobble. Just as Uncle Wiggily raised the paper umbrella, which kept off the rain, along came Mrs. Cluck Cluck the hen.

5. "Oh, please, Mrs. Cluck Cluck, take this Japanese parasol that Mrs. Wibblewobble loaned me!" cried Uncle Wiggily to the hen lady when he saw she was getting all wet. "Oh, but I'll be robbing you!" cackled Mrs. Cluck Cluck. "Nonsense!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I don't mind April showers. Besides, maybe, I can get under the pan with this kind dog I see coming along. Keen drv, Mrs. Cluck Cluck!"

Keep dry, Mrs. Cluck Cluck!"

6. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" barked the ragged but polite tramp dog. "It won't do for you to get wet. Take my umbrella! I made it out of an old dishpan I found, and a broom stick. It will keep you dry. As for me, I'll stand out in the rain, and wash my clothes that way." Uncle Wiggily thanked the tramp dog, and just then, the bunny saw Mrs. Bushytail, the squirrel lady coming. "I must help her," he thought.

7. Uncle Wiggily had no sooner stepped under the pan umbrella than along came Mrs. Bushytail. The squirrel lady was getting all wet. "Oh, my dear Mrs. Bushytail!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Pray allow me! This isn't a stylish umbrella, but it will keep off the wet." And the bunny stood in the April shower as Mrs. Bushytail scrambled off. Then out of his house with some pancakes came Mr. Stubtail, the nice bear.

8. "Look here, Uncle Wiggily!" said Mr. Stubtail. "There is no need of you getting wet. Here are some very tough pancakes my wife made. I can't eat them; rain won't hurt them. Fasten them on a stick and they'll keep off the rain." The bunny, thanking the bear, did this. And Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through the rain with his pancake umbrella when out popped the Skillery Scallery Alligator.

9. "Wait a minute!" grunted the Alligator. "Oh, no!" answered Uncle Wiggily. "I know what you want—my ears!" The 'Gator growled: "Well, I'm so hungry I must eat something! Stand still until I get you!" But Uncle Wiggily wouldn't do that. "Here, nibble some of Mrs. Stubtail's griddle cakes!" he cried. "They are so tough you can chew on them for a week and I can get away!" Then the sun came out.

And if the Circus elephant doesn't take the wheels off the lion's cage to make a pair of roller skates for the camel, the next pictures and story will be about Uncle Wiggily's Lemonade Stand.

LEMONADE SHOULD BE SOUR, AND NOT MADE TOO SWEET.
BUT UNCLE WIGGILY'S KIND SWEEPED THE FOX OFF HIS FEET!
AND IT SERVED HIM RIGHT, I THINK.

1. One day, as Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy opened the kitchen door in the hollow stump bungalow, she saw Uncle Wiggily squeezing juice from a lemon. "Oh, Wiggy! Are you making a lemon pie?" asked the muskrat lady. Just then some of the sour juice squirted in her eye and she squirmed like an angle worm. "I guess I made a mistake that time!" sadly said the bunny. "But I am trying to make lemonade."

"I guess I made a mistake that time!" sadly said the bunny. "But I am trying to make lemonade."

2. After Uncle Wiggily had helped Nurse Jane wipe the lemon juice out of her eye with the towel, the muskrat lady asked: "Why are you making lemonade, Uncle Wiggily?" The bunny gentleman said that some of the animal children wanted to start a lemonade stand, so they could sell cool drinks on hot days and give the money to the Fresh Air Fund for Poor Animal Children. So the stand was started.

The bunny gentleman said that some of the animal children wanted to start a lemonade stand, so they could sell cool drinks on hot days and give the money to the Fresh Air Fund for Poor Animal Children. So the stand was started.

3. Uncle Wiggily helped Nannie the girl goat, and Curly the pig to make lemonade to sell from a street stand. The first customer was Mr. Stubtail, the bear gentleman. Nannie handed him a glass, and when no one was looking the piggie boy took some lemonade. I'm not saying that was right, though. "We hope you like our lemonade, Mr. Stubtail," said Nannie. "Please bring Neddie and Beckie to our stand."

4. "I'll drink this lemonade," said Mr. Stubtail, "and then I'll go get Neddie and Beckie and treat them." He put the glass to his lips, but, no sooner had he taken a sip, than he dropped the glass and roared: "Oh, burr-r-r-r! Wuff! Wow!" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know what was the matter, and Nannie and the piggie boy were surprised. "Too sour! Too sour!" howled Mr. Stubtail. "I like sweet lemonade!"

5. Nannie ran in to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow and brought out some sugar, which she poured into the lemonade, while the piggie boy stirred it 'round and 'round. "I guess this will be all right for our next customer," spoke Uncle Wiggily. Soon along came Curly's father, Mr. Twistytail. He tasted some of the Fresh Air lemonade. "Oh, ugh! Bunk!" he grunted. "It's quite too SWEET! I like lemonade sour!"

6. "Our customers are getting mixed in our lemonade," said Uncle Wiggily to Nannie and Curly, as he sent them to the store to get more lemons. "I'll mark each pail so I'll know which is sweet and which is sour lemonade." So the bunny marked a large S on one pail, to show it was sweet. And he marked a large S on the other pail to show that it was sour. "Now everything will be fine!" said the bunny.

7. All at once Uncle Wiggily happened to think that just the letters on the pails weren't enough. "I can't tell Sweet from Sour, as each begins with the letter S," said the bunny. "I wonder what I'd better do?" Just then the bad Fuzzy Fox and the worse Woozie Wolf sprang out of the bushes. "You'd better keep still while we nibble your ears!" they howled. "First have some lemonade," invited the rabbit.

8. "What kind of lemonade have you?" barked the Fox, looking hungrily at Uncle Wiggily's ears. "Both kinds—Sweet and Sour," replied the bunny. "Then I'll take both kind—mixed!" chuckled the Fox, trying to be funny. "One kind will be enough for you, and it doesn't make any difference what kind!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and he threw the whole pail full of Sour lemonade over the bad Fox.

9. "Oh, wow! What does this mean?" barked the Fox. "It means that I am tired of having you make fun of my lemonade!" cried the bunny. "And I'm tired of waiting for your ears!" howled the Wolf, as the Fox ran away. "It's time you made a home-run also, Mr. Wolf!" chuckled the bunny. Then he threw pail, lemonade and all at the wolf, who ran away also. Then more lemonade was made for the children.

1.F.

1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project Gutenberg™ collection. Despite these efforts, Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain “Defects,” such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.

1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES - Except for the “Right of Replacement or Refund” described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.

1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you 'AS-IS', WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.

1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. ## Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility:
www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.
