THE LIBERTY MINSTREL.

"When the striving of surges Is mad on the main,
Like the charge of a column
Of plumes on the plain,
When the thunder is up From his cloud cradled sleep And the tempest is treading
The paths of the deep—There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see,
Like the sun-brilliant brow of a nation when free?"

PREFACE.

ALL creation is musical—all nature speaks the language of song.

'There's music in the sighing of a reed, There's music in the gushing of a rill; There's music in all things, if man had ears;
The earth is but an echo of the spheres.'

And who is not moved by music? "Who ever despises music," says Martin Luther, "I am displeased with him."

'There is a charm—a power that sways the breast, Bids every passion revel, or be still;
Inspires with rage, or all our cares dissolves;

Can soothe destruction, and almost soothes despair.'

That music is capable of accomplishing vast good, and that it is a source of the most elevated and refined enjoyment when rightly cultivated and practiced, no one who understands its power or has observed its effects, will for a moment deny.

'Thou, O music! canst assuage the pain and heal the wound That hath defied the skill of sager comforters;
Thou dost restrain each wild emotion, Thou dost the rage of fiercest passions chill,
Or lightest up the flames of holy fire, As through the soul thy strains harmonious thrill.'

Who does not desire to see the day when music in this country, cultivated and practised by ALL—music of a chaste, refined and elevated style, shall go forth with its angel voice, like a spirit of love upon the wind, exerting upon all classes of society a rich and healthful moral influence. When its wonderful power shall be made to subserve every righteous cause—to aid every humane effort for the promotion of man's social, civil and religious well-being.

It has been observed by travellers, that after a short residence in almost any of the cities of the eastern world, one would fancy "every second person a musician." During the night, the streets of these cities, particularly Rome, the capitol of Italy, are filled with all sorts of minstrelsy, and the ear is agreeably greeted with a perpetual confluence of sweet sounds. A Scotch traveller, in passing through one of the most delightful villas of Rome, overheard a stonemason chanting something in a strain of peculiar melancholy; and on inquiry, ascertained it to be the "Lament of Tasso." He soon learned that this celebrated piece was familiar to all the common people. Torquato Tasso was an Italian poet of great merit, who was for many years deprived of liberty, and subjected to severe trials and misfortunes by the jealousy and cruelty of his patron, the Duke of Ferrara. That master-piece of music, so justly admired and so much sung by the high and low throughout all Italy, had its origin in the wrongs of Tasso. An ardent love of humanity—a deep consciousness of the injustice of slavery—a heart full of sympathy for the oppressed, and a due appreciation of the blessings of freedom, has given birth to the poetry comprising this volume. I have long desired to see these sentiments of love, of sympathy, of justice and humanity, so beautifully expressed in poetic measure, embalmed in sweet music; so that all the people—the rich, the poor, the young, and the old, who have hearts to feel, and tongues to move, may sing of the wrongs of slavery, and the blessings of liberty, until every human being shall recognise in his fellow an equal;—"a MAN and a BROTHER." Until by familiarity with these sentiments, and their influence upon their hearts, the people, whose duty it is, shall "undo the heavy burdens and let the oppressed go free."

I announced, sometime since, my intention of publishing such a work. Many have been impatiently waiting its appearance. I should have been glad to have issued it and scattered it like leaves of the forest over the land, long ago, but circumstances which I could not control, have prevented. I purpose to enlarge the work from time to time, as circumstances may require.

Let associations of singers, having the love of liberty in their hearts, be immediately formed in every community. Let them study thoroughly, and make themselves perfectly familiar with both the poetry and the music, and enter into the sentiment of the piece they perform, that they may impress it upon their hearers. Above all things, let the enunciation of every word be clear and distinct. Most of the singing of the present day, is entirely too artificial, stiff and mechanical. It should be easy and natural; flowing directly from the soul of the performer, without affectation or display; and then singing will answer its true end, and not only please the ear, but affect and improve the heart.

To the true friends of universal freedom, the LIBERTY MINSTREL is respectfully dedicated.

Gone, gone—sold and gone,

To the rice-swamp dank and lone,
Oh, when weary, sad, and slow,
From the fields at night they go, Faint with toil, and rack'd with pain,
To their cheerless homes again—There no brother's voice shall greet them
There no father's welcome meet them.—
Gone, &c.

Gone, gone—sold and gone,
To the rice-swamp dank and lone,
From the tree whose shadow lay On their childhood's place of play—From the cool spring where they drank
Rock, and hill, and rivulet bank—
From the solemn house of prayer,
And the holy counsels there.—Gone, &c.

Gone, gone—sold and gone,
To the rice-swamp dank and lone,
Toiling through the weary day,
And at night the Spoiler's prey;
Oh, that they had earlier died, Sleeping calmly, side by side,
Where the tyrant's power is o'er,
And the fetter galls no more!—Gone, &c.

Gone, gone—sold and gone,
To the rice-swamp dank and lone,
By the holy love He beareth—
By the bruised reed He spareth—Oh, may He, to whom alone
All their cruel wrongs are known,

Still their hope and refuge prove,
With a more than mother's love.—Gone,

WHAT MEANS THAT SAD AND DISMAL LOOK?

Words by Geo. Russell. Arranged from "Near the Lake," by G.W.C.

1. What means that sad and dis - mal look, And why those fall - ing tears? No voice is heard, no word is spoke, Yet nought but grief ap - pears.

What means that sad and dismal look,
And why those falling tears?

No voice is heard, no word is spoke,
Yet nought but grief appears.

Ah! Mother, hast thou ever known
The pain of parting ties?
Was ever infant from thee torn And sold before thine eyes?

Say, would not grief thy bosom swell?
Thy tears like rivers flow?
Should some rude ruffian seize and sell
The child thou lovest so?

There's feeling in a Mother's breast, Though colored be her skin!
And though at Slavery's foul behest,
She must not weep for kin.

I had a lovely, smiling child,
It sat upon my knee;
And oft a tedious hour beguiled,
With merry heart of glee.

That child was from my bosom torn,
And sold before my eyes;

With outstretched arms, and looks forlorn, It uttered piteous cries.

Mother! dear Mother!—take, O take Thy helpless little one!
Ah! then I thought my heart would break;
My child—my child was gone.

Long, long ago, my child they stole,
But yet my grief remains;
These tears flow freely—and my soul
In bitterness complains.

Then ask not why "my dismal look," Nor why my "falling tears," Such wrongs, what human heart can brook?
No hope for me appears.

The Slave Boy's Wish.

BY ELIZA LEE FOLLEN.

I wish I was that little bird,
Up in the bright blue sky;
That sings and flies just where he will,
And no one asks him why.

I wish I was that little brook,
That runs so swift along;
Through pretty flowers and shining stones, Singing a merry song.

I wish I was that butterfly, Without a thought or care; Sporting my pretty, brilliant wings,
Like a flower in the air.

I wish I was that wild, wild deer,
I saw the other day;
Who swifter than an arrow flew,
Through the forest far away.

I wish I was that little cloud, By the gentle south wind driven;
Floating along, so free and bright, Far, far up into heaven.

I'd rather be a cunning fox,
And hide me in a cave;
I'd rather be a savage wolf,
Than what I am—a slave.

My mother calls me her good boy,
My father calls me brave;
What wicked action have I done,
That I should be a slave.

I saw my little sister sold,
So will they do to me;
My Heavenly Father, let me
die,
For then I shall be free.

Ye've gone from me, my

With all your shouts of mirth;

A silence is within my walls,

A darkness round my

Woe to the hearts that heard, unmoved,

The mother's anguish'd

And mock'd, with taunting

That bathed a father's cheek.

Woe to the hands that tore you

Thus tears her fellow's brood.

I list to hear your soft sweet tones,

 Upon the morning air;
I gaze amidst the twilight's gloom,
 As if to find you there.

But you no more come bounding forth

 To meet me in your glee;
And when the evening shadows fall,
 Ye are not at my knee.

Your forms are aye before my eyes,

 Your voices on my ear,
And all things wear a thought of you,
 But you no more are here.

You were the glory of my life,
 My blessing and my pride!
I half forgot the name of slave,

 When you were by my side!

Woe for your lot, ye doom'd ones! woe

 A seal is on your fate!
And shame, and toil, and wretchedness, On all your steps await!

on the map Where that far coun-try lies?

They say I was but four years old

When father was sold
away;
Yet I have never seen his face Since that sad parting day.
He went where brighter flowrets grow Beneath the Southern skies; Oh who will show me on the map Where that far country lies?

I begged him, "father, do not go!
For, since my mother died,
I love no one so well as you;"
And, clinging to his side, The tears came gushing down my cheeks Until my eyes were dim; Some were in sorrow for the dead,
And some in love for him.

He knelt and prayed of God above,
"My little daughter spare, And let us both here meet again,
O keep her in thy care."
He does not come!—I watch for him At evening twilight grey, Till every shadow wears his shape,
Along the grassy way.

I muse and listen all alone,

When stormy winds are high,
And think I hear his tender tone,

And call, but no reply;
And so I've done these four long years,

Without a friend or home, Yet every dream of hope is vain,—

Why don't my father come?

Father—dear father, are you sick,

Upon a stranger shore?—
The people say it must be so

O send to me once more,
And let your little daughter come,

To soothe your restless bed, And hold the cordial to your lips,

And press your aching head.

Alas!—I fear me he is dead!

Who will my trouble share?
Or tell me where his form is laid,

And let me travel there?
By mother's tomb I love to sit,
Where the green branches wave;

Good people! help a friendless child

To find her father's grave.

The Slave and her Babe.

WORDS BY CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH.

"Can a woman forget her sucking child?"

Air—"Slave Girl mourning her Father."

O, massa, let me stay, to catch My baby's sobbing breath;
His little glassy eye to watch, And smooth his limbs in death,
And cover him with grass and leaf, Beneath the plantain tree!
It is not sullenness, but grief
O, massa, pity me!

God gave me babe—a precious boon,
To cheer my lonely heart, But massa called to work too soon,
And I must needs depart.
The morn was chill—I spoke no word, But feared my babe might
die,
And heard all day, or thought I heard,
My little baby cry.

At noon—O, how I ran! and took

My baby to my breast!
I lingered—and the long lash broke

My sleeping infant's rest.
I worked till night—till darkest night,

In torture and disgrace; Went home, and watched till morning light,
To see my baby's face.

The fulness from its cheek was gone,

The sparkle from its eye;
Now hot, like fire, now cold, like stone,

I knew my babe must die.
I worked upon plantation ground,

Though faint with woe and dread, Then ran, or flew, and here I found—

See massa, almost dead.

Then give me but one little hour—

O! do not lash me so!
One little hour—one little hour—

And gratefully I'll go.
Ah me! the whip has cut my boy,

I heard his feeble scream;
No more—farewell my only joy,

My life's first gladsome dream!

I lay thee on the lonely sod,
The heaven is bright above; These Christians boast they have a God,
And say his name is Love: O gentle, loving God, look down!
My dying baby see;
The mercy that from earth is flown, Perhaps may dwell with THEE!

Above the first staff, there are markings for '1st time.', 'FINE.', and '3d time.' indicating a repeat structure. The lyrics continue across the staves, with a large brace on the left grouping them.

Forced from home and all its pleasures,

Afric's coast I left forlorn;
To increase a stranger's treasures,

O'er the raging billows borne.

Christian people bought and sold me,

Paid my price in paltry gold:

But though slave they have enrolled me

Minds are never to be sold.

Is there, as ye sometimes tell me,

Is there one who reigns on high?

Has he bid you buy and sell me,

Speaking from his throne—the sky?

Ask him, if your knotted scourges,

Matches, blood-extorting screws,
Are the means that duty urges Agents of his will to use.

Hark! he answers—wild tornadoes, Strewing yonder sea with wrecks, Wasting towns, plantations, meadows,
Are the voice with which he speaks.
He, foreseeing what vexations Afric's sons should undergo,
Fixed their tyrant's habitations, Where his whirlwinds answer—No!

By our blood in Afric' wasted, Ere our necks received the chain;
By the miseries that we tasted, Crossing in your barks the main:
By our sufferings, since ye brought us To the man-degrading mart, All sustained by patience, taught us Only by a broken heart—

Deem our nation brutes no longer,

Till some reason ye shall find,

Worthier of regard and stronger

Than the color of our kind.
Slaves of gold! whose sordid dealings

Tarnish all your boasted powers;

Prove that you have human feelings,

Ere you proudly question ours.

NEGRO BOY SOLD FOR A WATCH.[\[1\]](#)

Words by Cowper. Arranged by G.W.C. from an old theme.

When av-a - rice en-slaves the mind, And selfish views alone bear sway Man turns a sav - age to his kind, And blood and ra - pine mark his way. A - las! for this poor sim - ple toy, I sold the hap - less Ne - gro boy.

When avarice enslaves the mind,
 And selfish views alone bear sway Man turns a savage to his kind,
 And blood and rapine mark his way.

Alas! for this poor simple toy,
I sold the hapless Negro boy.

His father's hope, his mother's pride, Though black, yet comely to the view
I tore him helpless from their side,
And gave him to a ruffian crew—
To fiends that Afric's coast annoy,
I sold the hapless Negro Boy.

From country, friends, and parents torn,
His tender limbs in chains confined,
I saw him o'er the billows borne,
And marked his agony of mind;
But still to gain this simple toy,
I gave the weeping Negro Boy.

In isles that deck the western wave
I doomed the hapless youth to dwell, A poor, forlorn, insulted slave!
A BEAST THAT CHRISTIANS BUY AND SELL!
And in their cruel tasks employ The much-enduring Negro Boy.

His wretched parents long shall mourn, Shall long explore the distant main In hope to see the youth return;
But all their hopes and sighs are vain:
They never shall the sight enjoy,
Of their lamented Negro Boy.

Beneath a tyrant's harsh command,
He wears away his youthful prime;
Far distant from his native land,
A stranger in a foreign clime.
No pleasing thoughts his mind employ,
A poor, dejected Negro Boy.

But He who walks upon the wind, Whose voice in thunder's heard on high,
Who doth the raging tempest bind, And hurl the lightning through the sky,
In his own time will sure destroy The oppressor of the Negro Boy.

My master conveys me away,

His whims or caprices to O slavery, where are the

I am out of humanity's reach,
And must finish my life with a groan; Never hear the sweet music of

That tells me my body's my Society, friendship, and love, Divinely bestowed upon some,

Are blessings I never can

If slavery's my portion to Religion! what treasures untold,

Reside in that heavenly

More precious than silver or

Or all that this earth can

But I am excluded the light

Of freedom from tyranny's

A wish or a thought after

O, tell me I yet have a friend,

A friend I am anxious to How fleet is a glance of the Compared with the speed of its flight;

The tempest itself lags behind,

And the swift-winged arrows of light.

When I think of Victoria's

In a moment I seem to be

But the fear of being taken

Soon hurries me back to despair.

The wood-fowl has gone to her nest,

The beast has lain down in his lair;

To me, there's no season of

Though I to my quarter repair.

If mercy, O Lord, is in store,

Why did ye wake me from my sleep? It was a dream of bliss, And ye have torn me from that land, to pine again in this; Methought, beneath yon whispering tree, that I was laid to rest, The turf, with all its with'ring flowers, upon my cold heart pressed.

My chains, these hateful chains, were gone—oh, would that I might die, So from my swelling pulse I could forever cast them by!
And on, away, o'er land and sea, my joyful spirit passed,
Till, 'neath my own banana tree, I lighted down at last.

My cabin door, with all its flowers, was still profusely gay,
As when I lightly sported there, in childhood's careless day!
But trees that were as sapling twigs, with broad and shadowing bough, Around the well-known threshold spread a freshening coolness now.

The birds whose notes I used to hear, were shouting on the earth, As if to greet me back again with their wild strains of mirth;

My own bright stream was at my feet, and how I laughed to lave
My burning lip, and cheek, and brow, in that delicious wave!

My boy, my first-born babe, had died amid his early hours,
And there we laid him to his sleep among the clustering flowers; Yet lo! without my cottage-door he sported in his glee,
With her whose grave is far from his, beneath yon linden tree.

I sprang to snatch them to my soul; when breathing out my name, To grasp my hand, and press my lip, a crowd of loved ones came!
Wife, parents, children, kinsmen, friends! the dear and lost ones all,
With blessed words of welcome came, to greet me from my thrall.

Forms long unseen were by my side; and thrilling on my ear, Came cadences from gentle tones, unheard for many a year;
And on my cheeks fond lips were pressed, with true affection's kiss—
And so ye waked me from my sleep—but 'twas a dream of bliss!

See these poor souls from Africa, Transported to America;
We are stolen, and sold to Georgia, will you go along with me?
We are stolen and sold to Georgia, go sound the See wives and husbands sold apart,

The children's screams!—it breaks my heart;
There's a better day a coming, will you go along

There's a better day a coming, go sound the O gracious Lord! when shall it be,

That we poor souls shall all be free?
Lord, break them Slavery powers—will you go

Lord, break them Slavery powers, go sound the

Dear Lord! dear Lord! when Slavery'll cease, Then we poor souls can have our peace;
There's a better day a coming, will you go along

There's a better day a coming, go sound the

The fourth and final system of the hymn. The treble staff concludes with a final chord and a fermata. The lyrics are written below the staves.

Hark! I hear a sound of anguish

In my own, my native land; Brethren, doomed in chains to languish,

Lift to heaven the suppliant hand,

And despairing,

And despairing,

Death the end of woe demand.

Let us raise our supplication

For the wretched suffering
slave,

All whose life is desolation,

All whose hope is in the grave;

God of mercy!

From thy throne, O hear and save.

Those in bonds we would remember

As if we with them were bound;

For each crushed, each suffering member

Let our sympathies abound, Till our labors Spread the smiles of freedom round.

Even now the word is spoken;
"Slavery's cruel power must cease,
From the bound the chain be broken, Captives hail the kind release,"

While in splendor Comes to reign the Prince of Peace.

Solo.

Heavy and cold in his dungeon hold,
Is the yoke of the oppressor; Dark o'er the soul is the fell control Of the stern and dread transgressor.

Chorus.

Oh then come all to bring the thrall Up from his deep despairing,

Brothers be brave for the pining slave,
From his wife and children riven;
From every vale their bitter wail Goes sounding up to Heaven.
Then for the life of that poor wife,
And for those children pining;
O ne'er give o'er till the chains no more

Around their limbs are twining.

Gloomy and damp is the low rice swamp,

Where their meagre bands are wasting;

All worn and weak, in vain they seek

For rest, to the cool shade hasting;

For drivers fell, like fiends from hell,

Cease not their savage shouting;

And the scourge's crack, from quivering back,

Sends up the red blood spouting.

Into the grave looks only the slave,

For rest to his limbs aweary;

His spirit's light comes from that night,

To us so dark and dreary.

That soul shall nurse its heavy curse

Against a day of terror,

When the lightning gleam of his wrath shall stream

Like fire, on the hosts of error.

Heavy and stern are the bolts which burn

In the right hand of Jehovah;

To smite the strong red arm of wrong,

And dash his temples over;

Then on amain to rend the chain,

Ere bursts the vallied thunder;

Right onward speed till the slave is freed—

His manacles torn asunder.

The Slaver in the broad lagoon, Lay moored with idle sail;

He waited for the rising moon,
And for the evening gale.

The Planter under his roof of thatch, Smoked thoughtfully and slow;
The Slaver's thumb was on the latch,
He seemed in haste to go.

He said, "My ship at anchor rides In yonder broad lagoon;
I only wait the evening tides, And the rising of the moon."

Before them, with her face upraised,
In timid attitude, Like one half curious, half amazed, A Quadroon maiden stood.

And on her lips there played a smile
As holy, meek, and faint, As lights, in some cathedral aisle,
The features of a saint.

"The soil is barren, the farm is old,"

The thoughtful Planter said, Then looked upon the Slaver's gold,

And then upon the maid.

His heart within him was at strife,

With such accursed gains;
For he knew whose passions gave her life,

Whose blood ran in her veins.

But the voice of nature was too weak:

He took the glittering gold!
Then pale as death grew the maiden's cheek,

Her hands as icy cold.

The Slaver led her from the door,

He led her by the hand,
To be his slave and paramour In a far and distant land.

Domestic Bliss.

BY REV. JAMES GREGG.

Domestic bliss; thou fairest flower

That erst in Eden grew,
Dear relic of the happy bower, Our first grand parents knew!

We hail thee in the rugged soil
Of this waste wilderness, To cheer our way and cheat our toil,
With gleams of happiness.

In thy mild light we travel on,
And smile at toil and pain;
And think no more of Eden
gone,
For Eden won again.

Such, Emily, the bliss, the joy By Heaven bestowed on you;
A husband kind, a lovely boy,
A father fond and true.

Religion adds her cheering beams,
And sanctifies these ties;
And sheds o'er all the brighter gleams,

She borrows from the skies.

But ah! reflect; are all thus blest?

Hath home such charms for all?

Can such delights as these invest

Foul slavery's wretched thrall?

Can those be happy in these ties

Who wear her galling chain?

Or taste the blessed charities

That in the household reign?

Can those be blest, whose hope, whose life,

Hang on a tyrant's nod;
To whom nor husband, child, nor wife

Are known—yea, scarcely
God?

Whose ties may all be rudely riven,

At avarice' fell behest; Whose only hope of home is heaven,

The grave their only rest.

Oh! think of those, the poor,
th' oppressed,

In your full hour of bliss;

Nor e'er from prayer and effort rest,

While earth bears woe like this.

I pity the slave mother, careworn and weary,

Who sighs as she presses her babe to her breast;

I lament her sad fate, all so hopeless and dreary,

I lament for her woes, and her wrongs unredressed.

O who can imagine her heart's deep emotion,

As she thinks of her children about to be sold;

You may picture the bounds of the rockgirdled ocean,

But the grief of that mother can never be known.

The mildew of slavery has blighted each blossom,

That ever has bloomed in her pathway below;

It has froze every fountain that gushed in her bosom,

And chilled her heart's verdure with pitiless woe:

Her parents, her kindred, all crushed by oppression;

Her husband still doomed in its desert to stay;

No arm to protect from the tyrant's aggression—

She must weep as she treads on her desolate way.

O, slave-mother, hope! see—the nation is shaking!

The arm of the Lord is awake to thy wrong!

The slave-holder's heart now with terror is quaking

Salvation and Mercy to Heaven belong!

Rejoice, O rejoice! for the child thou art rearing,

May one day lift up its unmanacled form,

While hope, to thy heart, like the rainbow so cheering,

Is born, like the rain-bow, 'mid tempest and storm.

How long! O! how long!

How long will the friend of the slave plead in vain?

How long e'er the Christian will loosen the chain?

If he, by our efforts, more hardened should be,

O Father, forgive him! we trust but in thee.

That 'we're all free and equal,' how senseless the cry,

While millions in bondage are groaning so nigh!

O where is our freedom? equality where?

To this none can answer, but echo cries,
where?

O'er this stain on our country we'd fain draw a veil,

But history's page will proclaim the sad tale,

That Christians, unblushing, could shout
'we are free,'

Whilst they the oppressors of millions could be.

They can feel for themselves, for the Pole they can feel,

Towards Afric's children their hearts are like steel;

They are deaf to their call, to their wrongs they are blind;

In error they slumber nor seek truth to find.

Though scorn and oppression on our pathway attend, Despised and reviled, we the slave will befriend;
Our Father, thy blessing! we look but to thee, Nor cease from our labors till all shall be free.
Should mobs in their fury with missiles assail,
The cause it is righteous, the truth will prevail;
Then heed not their clamors, though loud they proclaim That freedom shall slumber, and slavery reign.

Resolved at last the man to play:—

Chorus.

The hounds are baying on my track;

O Christian! will you send me back?

The hounds are baying on my track;

O Christian! will you send me back?

I felt the stripes, the lash I saw,

Red, dripping with a father's gore;

And, worst of all their lawless law,

The insults that my mother bore!

The hounds are baying on my track,

O Christian! will you send me back?

Where human law o'errules Divine,

Beneath the sheriff's hammer fell

My wife and babes,—I call them mine,—

And where they suffer, who can tell?

The hounds are baying on my track,

O Christian! will you send me back?

I seek a home where man is man,

If such there be upon this earth,

To draw my kindred, if I can, Around its free, though humble hearth.

The hounds are baying on
my track,

O Christian! will you send me back!

The Strength of Tyranny.

The tyrant's chains are only strong

While slaves submit to wear them;

And, who could bind them on the strong,

Determined not to wear them?

Then clank your chains, e'en though the links

Were light as fashion's feather:

The heart which rightly feels and thinks

Would cast them altogether.

The lords of earth are only great

While others clothe and feed them!

But what were all their pride and state

Should labor cease to heed them?

The swain is higher than a king:

Before the laws of nature,
The monarch were a useless thing,

The swain a useless creature.

We toil, we spin, we delve the mine,

Sustaining each his neighbor;

And who can hold a right divine

To rob us of our labor?

We rush to battle—bear our lot

In every ill and danger—

And who shall make the peaceful cot

To homely joy a stranger?

Perish all tyrants far and near,

Beneath the chains that bind us;

And perish too that servile fear

Which makes the slaves they find us:

One grand, one universal claim—

One peal of moral thunder

One glorious burst in Freedom's name,

And rend our bonds asunder!

Come back to me mother! why linger
away From thy poor little blind boy, the long weary day!
I mark every footstep, I list to each tone,
And wonder my mother should leave me alone!
There are voices of sorrow, and voices of glee, But there's no one to joy or to sorrow with me;
For each hath of pleasure and trouble his share,
And none for the poor little blind boy will care.

My mother, come back to me! close to thy breast
Once more let thy poor little blind one be pressed;
Once more let me feel thy warm breath on my cheek,
And hear thee in accents of tenderness speak!
O mother! I've no one to love me—no heart
Can bear like thine own in my sorrows a part,

No hand is so gentle, no voice is so kind, Oh! none like a mother can cherish the blind!

Poor blind one! No mother thy wailing can hear,
No mother can hasten to banish thy fear;
For the slave-owner drives her, o'er mountain and wild,
And for one paltry dollar hath sold thee, poor child!
Ah! who can in language of mortals reveal The anguish that none but a mother can feel,
When man in his vile lust of mammon hath trod
On her child, who is stricken and smitten of God!

Blind, helpless, forsaken, with strangers
alone,
She hears in her anguish his piteous moan;
As he eagerly listens—but listens in vain,
To catch the loved tones of his mother
again!
The curse of the broken in spirit shall fall
On the wretch who hath mingled this wormwood and gall,
And his gain like a mildew shall blight and destroy,
Who hath torn from his mother the little blind boy!

SLAVE'S WRONGS.

Words by Miss Chandler. Arranged from "Rose of Allandale."

With ach-ing brow and wea-ried limb, The slave his toil pur-sued; And oft I saw the cru-el scourge Deep in his blood imbrued; He tilled op-pres-sion's soil where men For lib - er - ty had bled, And the ea - gle wing of Free - dom waved In mock - - ery, o'er his head.

With aching brow and wearied limb,
 The slave his toil pursued;
 And oft I saw the cruel scourge Deep in his blood imbrued;
 He tilled oppression's soil where men For liberty had bled,
 And the eagle wing of Freedom waved In mockery, o'er his head.

The earth was filled with the triumph shout

Of men who had burst their chains;
But his, the heaviest of them all,
Still lay on his burning veins;
In his master's hall there was luxury,
And wealth, and mental light;
But the very book of the Christian law,
Was hidden from his sight.

In his master's halls there was wine and mirth,
And songs for the newly free;
But his own low cabin was desolate
Of all but misery.
He felt it all—and to bitterness His heart within him turned;
While the panting wish for liberty,
Like a fire in his bosom burned.

The haunting thought of his wrongs grew changed
To a darker and fiercer hue, Till the horrible shape it sometimes wore At last familiar grew;
There was darkness all within his heart,
And madness in his soul;
And the demon spark, in his bosom nursed, Blazed up beyond control.

Then came a scene! oh! such a scene!
I would I might forget The ringing sound of the midnight scream,
And the hearth-stone redly wet!
The mother slain while she shrieked in vain
For her infant's threatened life;

And the flying form of the frightened child,
Struck down by the bloody knife.

There's many a heart that yet will start From its troubled sleep, at night,
As the horrid form of the vengeful slave Comes in dreams before the sight.
The slave was crushed, and his fetters' link Drawn tighter than before;
And the bloody earth again was drenched
With the streams of his flowing gore.

Ah! know they not, that the tightest band Must burst with the wildest power?— That the more the slave is oppressed and wronged,
Will be fiercer his rising hour?
They may thrust him back with the arm of might,
They may drench the earth with his blood—
But the best and purest of their own,
Will blend with the sanguine flood.

I could tell thee more—but my strength is gone,
And my breath is wasting fast;
Long ere the darkness to-night has fled, Will my life from the earth have passed:
But this, the sum of all I have learned, Ere I go I will tell to thee;—
If tyrants would hope for tranquil hearts,
They must let the oppressed go free.

MY CHILD IS GONE.

Doloroso.

Hark! from the winds a voice of woe, The wild At-lan-tic in its flow, Bears on its breast the mur-mur low, My child is gone!

Hark! from the winds a voice of woe,

The wild Atlantic in its flow, Bears on its breast the murmur low,

My child is gone!

Like savage tigers o'er their prey,
They tore him from my heart
away;
And now I cry, by night by day—

My child is gone!

How many a free-born babe is press'd With fondness to its mother's breast,
And rocked upon her arms to rest,

While mine is gone!

No longer now, at eve I see, Beneath the sheltering plantain tree,

My baby cradled on my knee,
For he is gone!

And when I seek my cot at night, There's not a thing that meets my sight, But tells me that my soul's delight,

My child, is gone!

I sink to sleep, and then I seem To hear again his parting scream
I start and wake—'tis but a dream—

My child is gone!

Gone—till my toils and griefs are o'er,
And I shall reach that happy shore, Where negro mothers cry no more—

My child is gone!

Be each a blissful dwelling

Where kindred spirits reunite Whom death has torn

How sweet it were at once to die,
And leave this blighted orb afar!
Mix soul with soul to cleave
the sky,
And soar away from star to star!

But oh! how dark, how drear, how lone,
Would seem the brightest world of bliss, If, wandering through each radiant one,
We failed to find the loved of this!

If there no more the ties should twine, Which Death's cold hand alone can sever, Ah! then those stars in mockery shine, More hateful as they shine forever!

It cannot be—each hope and fear,
That lights the eye or clouds the brow,

Proclaims there is a happier sphere

Than this bleak world that holds us now!

There is a voice which sorrow hears,

When heaviest weighs life's galling chain,

"Tis heaven that whispers,
"dry thy tears,

The pure in heart shall meet again."

The Poor Little Slave.

FROM "THE CHARTER OAK."

O pity the poor little slave, Who labors hard through all the day—
And has no one,
When day is done,
To teach his youthful heart to pray.

No words of love—no fond embrace—No smiles from parents kind and dear;
No tears are shed Around his bed, When fevers rage, and death is near.

None feel for him when heavy chains
Are fastened to his tender limb;
No pitying eyes,
No sympathies, No prayers are raised to heaven for him.

Yes I will pity the poor slave,
And pray that he may soon be free;
That he at last,

When days are past, In heaven may have his liberty.

Oh deep was the an - guish of the slave mother's heart, When called from her darling for ev - er to part; So grieved that lone mother, that heart broken mother, In sor - - - row and woe.

Oh deep was the anguish of the slave mother's heart, When called from her darling for ever to

part;
So grieved that lone mother, that heart broken mother,
In sorrow and woe.

The lash of the master her deep sorrows mock,
While the child of her bosom is sold on the block;
Yet loud shrieked that mother, poor heart broken mother,
In sorrow and woe.

The babe in return, for its fond mother cries,
While the sound of their wailings together arise;
They shriek for each other, the child and the mother,
In sorrow and woe.

The harsh auctioneer to sympathy cold, Tears the babe from its mother and sells it for gold;
While the infant and mother, loud shriek for each other,
In sorrow and woe.

At last came the parting of mother and child,
Her brain reeled with madness, that mother was wild;
Then the lash could not smother the shrieks of that mother, Of sorrow and woe.

The child was borne off to a far distant clime, While the mother was left in anguish to pine;

But reason departed, and she sank broken hearted,
In sorrow and woe.

That poor mourning mother, of reason bereft, Soon ended her sorrows and sank cold in death:
Thus died that slave mother, poor heart broken mother,
In sorrow and woe.

Oh! list ye kind mothers to the cries of the slave;
The parents and children implore you to save;
Go! rescue the mothers, the sisters and brothers,
From sorrow and woe.

HEARD YE THAT CRY.

Heard ye that cry! Twas the wail of a
slave,
As he sank in despair, to the rest of the grave;

Behold him where bleeding and prostrate he lies, Unfriended he lived, and unpitied he died.

The white man oppressed him—the white man for gold, Made him toil amidst tortures that cannot be told;
He robbed him, and spoiled him, of all that was dear,
And made him the prey of affliction and fear.

But his anguish was seen, and his wailings were heard, By the Lord God of Hosts; whose vengeance deferred, Gathers force by delay, and with fury will burst,
On his impious oppressor—the tyrant accurst!

Arouse ye, arouse ye! ye generous and Plead the rights of the poor—plead the cause of the slave; Nor cease your exertions till broken shall be The fetters that bind him, and the slave shall be free.

Sleep on my Child.

BY R.J.H.

Sleep on, my child, in peaceful rest, While lovely visions round thee play;
No care or grief has touched
thy breast,
Thy life is yet a cloudless day.

Far distant is my childhood's home—No mother's smiles—no father's care!
Oh! how I'd love again to roam, Where once my little playmates were!

Sleep on, thou hast not felt the
chain;
But though 'tis yet unmingled
joy,
I may not see those smiles
again,
Nor clasp thee to my breast, my boy.

And must I see thee toil and bleed!
Thy manly soul in fetters tied;
'Twill wring thy mother's heart indeed—

And soon these lips must say —farewell!

Say, O fond Zurima, Where dost thou stay?

Say, doth the orange still

Zurima, Zurima, Am I forgot?
O, my country, my country! how long I

Far over the mountain, far over the sea.

Under the baobab Oft have I slept, Fanned by sweet breezes That over me swept.
Often in dreams
Do my weary limbs lay
'Neath the same baobab, Far, far away,
O my country, my country, how long I
for thee,
Far over the mountain, far over the sea.

O for the breath
Of our own waving palm, Here, as I languish,
My spirit to calm—

O for a draught
From our own cooling lake, Brought by sweet mother,
My spirit to wake.
O my country, my country, how long I
for thee,
Far over the mountain, far over the sea.

PRAYER FOR THE SLAVE.

Tune—Hamburgh.

Oh let the pris-ner's mourn-ful sighs

As in-cense in thy sight ap-pear!

Their hum-ble wail-ings pierce the skies,

If hap-ly they may feel thee near.

Oh let the pris'ner's mournful sighs
As incense in thy sight

appear!
Their humble wailings pierce the skies,
 If haply they may feel thee near.

The captive exiles make their moans,
 From sin impatient to be
free;
Call home, call home, thy banished ones!
 Lead captive their captivity!

Out of the deep regard their cries,
 The fallen raise, the mourners cheer, Oh, Son of Righteousness, arise,
 And scatter all their doubts and fear.

Stand by them in the fiery
hour,
 Their feebleness of mind defend;
And in their weakness show thy power,
 And make them patient to the end.

Relieve the souls whose cross we bear,
 For whom thy suffering members mourn:

Answer our faith's effectual prayer;
And break the yoke so meekly borne!

Remembering that God is just.

Oh righteous God! whose awful frown Can crumble nations to the dust, Trembling we stand before thy throne,
When we reflect that thou art just.

Dost thou not see the dreadful wrong,
Which Afric's injured race sustains?
And wilt thou not arise ere long,
To plead their cause, and break their chains?

Must not thine anger quickly rise Against the men whom lust controls, Who dare thy righteous laws despise And traffic in the blood of souls?

A noble man of sable brow

Came to my humble cottage door,
With cautious, weary step and slow,
And asked if I could feed the poor;
He begged if I had ought to give,
To help the panting fugitive.

I told him he had fled away From his kind master, friends, and home;
That he was black—a slave astray,
And should return as he had come;
That I would to his master give
The straying villain fugitive.

He fell upon his trembling knee
And claimed he was a brother
man,
That I was bound to set him
free,
According to the gospel plan;
And if I would God's grace receive,
That I must help the fugitive.

He showed the stripes his master gave,
The festering wound—the sightless eye,
The common badges of the slave,

And said he would be free, or
die;
And if I nothing had to give,
I should not stop the fugitive.

He owned his was a sable
skin,
That which his Maker first had given;
But mine would be a darker sin,
That would exclude my soul from heaven:
And if I would God's grace
receive,
I should relieve the fugitive.

I bowed and took the stranger in,
And gave him meat, and drink, and rest, I hope that God forgave my sin,
And made me with that brother blest;
I am resolved, long as I live,
To help the panting fugitive.

Am I not a Sister?

BY A.C.L.

Am I not a sister, say?
Shall I then be bought and sold
In the mart and by the way, For the white man's lust and gold?
Save me then from his foul snare,
Leave me not to perish there!

Am I not a sister say,
Though I have a sable hue!
Lo! I have been dragged
away,
From my friends and kindred true,
And have toiled in yonder field,
There have long been bruised and peeled!

Am I not a sister, say?
Have I an immortal soul?
Will you, sisters, tell me nay?
Shall I live in lust's control,
To be chattled like a beast, By the Christian church and priest?

Am I not a sister, say?

Though I have been made a slave?

Will you not then for me pray,

To the God whose power can save,

High and low, and bond and
free?

Toil and pray and vote for me!

Ye heralds of freedom, ye noble and brave,

Who dare to insist on the rights of the slave;
Go onward, go onward, your cause is of God,
And he will soon sever the oppressor's strong rod.

The finger of slander may now at you point,
That finger will soon lose the strength of its joint;
And those who now plead for the rights of the slave,
Will soon be acknowledged the good and the brave.

Though thrones and dominions, and kingdoms and powers, May now all oppose you, the victory is yours;
The banner of Jesus will soon be unfurled,
And he will give freedom and peace to the world.

Go under his standard and fight by his side, O'er mountains and billows you'll then safely ride.
His gracious protection will be to you given,
And bright crowns of glory he'll give you in heaven.

I would not live alway.

BY PIERPONT.

I would not live alway; I ask not to stay, Where I must bear the burden and heat of the day:
Where my body is cut with the lash or the cord,
And a hovel and hunger are all my reward.

I would not live alway, where life is a load
To the flesh and the spirit:—since there's an abode
For the soul disenthralled, let me breathe my last
And repose in thine arms, my deliverer, Death!—

I would not live alway to toil as a slave:
Oh no, let me rest, though I rest in my grave;
For there, from their troubling, the wicked shall
And, free from his master, the slave be at peace.

Each system consists of three staves: a vocal line (treble clef) and a piano accompaniment (grand staff with treble and bass clefs). The key signature is one flat (B-flat), and the time signature is common time (C). The lyrics are written below the vocal line. The first system contains the lyrics 'May - flower moored be - low ; When the'. The second system contains 'sea a - round was black with storms, And'. The third system contains 'white the shore with snow.' The piano accompaniment features a steady bass line and chords that support the vocal melody.

Our Pilgrim Fathers—where are they?
The waves that brought them o'er,

Still roll in the bay, and throw their spray
As they break along the shore; Still roll in the bay, as they rolled that day,
When the Mayflower moored below; When the sea around was black with storms,
And white the shore with snow.

The mists that wrapped the Pilgrim's sleep,
Still brood upon the tide;
And his rocks yet keep their watch by the deep,
To stay its waves of pride.
But the snow-white sail, that she gave to the gale
When the heavens looked dark, is gone;
As an angel's wing, through an opening cloud,
Is seen, and then withdrawn.

The Pilgrim exile—sainted name!
The hill, whose icy brow Rejoiced when he came in the morning's flame,
In the morning's flame burns now.
And the moon's cold light, as it lay that night,
On the hill-side and the sea, Still lies where he laid his houseless
head;
But the Pilgrim—where is he?

The Pilgrim Fathers are at rest;
When Summer's throned on high,

And the world's warm breast is in verdure dressed,

Go, stand on the hill where they lie.
The earliest ray of the golden day,
On that hallowed spot is cast;
And the evening sun as he leaves the world, Looks kindly on that spot last.

The Pilgrim spirit has not fled—It walks in noon's broad light;
And it watches the bed of the glorious dead,
With the holy stars, by night.
It watches the bed of the brave who have bled,
And shall guard this ice-bound shore, Till the waves of the bay, where the Mayflower lay,
Shall foam and freeze no more.

Is this the land our fathers loved,
The freedom which they toiled to win?
Is this the soil whereon they moved?
Are these the graves they slumber in?
Are we the sons by whom are borne,
The mantles which the dead have won?

And shall we crouch above these graves,
With craven soul and fettered lip?
Yoke in with marked and branded slaves,
And tremble at the driver's whip?
Bend to the earth our pliant knees,
And speak—but as our masters please?

Shall outraged Nature cease to feel?
Shall Mercy's tears no longer flow?
Shall ruffian threats of cord and steel—The dungeon's gloom—th' assassin's blow,
Turn back the spirit roused to save The Truth—our Country—and the Slave?

Of human skulls that shrine was made,

Round which the priests of Mexico Before their loathsome idol prayed—Is Freedom's altar fashioned so?
And must we yield to Freedom's God
As offering meet, the negro's blood?

Shall tongues be mute, when deeds are wrought

Which well might shame extremest Hell?

Shall freemen lock th' indignant thought?

Shall Mercy's bosom cease to swell?
Shall Honor bleed?—Shall Truth succumb?

Shall pen, and press, and soul be dumb?

No—by each spot of haunted ground,

Where Freedom weeps her children's fall—

By Plymouth's rock—and Bunker's mound—

By Griswold's stained and shattered wall—

By Warren's ghost—by Langdon's shade

By all the memories of our dead!

By their enlarging souls, which burst

The bands and fetters round them set

By the free Pilgrim spirit nursed

Within our inmost bosoms, yet,—

By all above—around—below—

Be ours the indignant answer—no!

No—guided by our country's laws,

For truth, and right, and suffering
man,
Be ours to strive in Freedom's cause,
As Christians may—as freemen can!
Still pouring on unwilling ears
That truth oppression only fears.

The fourth system of musical notation concludes the piano accompaniment. The treble staff melody includes a half note and quarter notes. The bass staff accompaniment continues with quarter notes.

Oh, turn ye not displeased away, though I should sometimes seem Too much to press upon your ear, an oft repeated theme;
The story of the negro's wrongs is heavy at my heart,
And can I choose but wish from you a sympathizing part?

I turn to you to share my joy,—to soothe me in my grief—
In wayward sadness from your smiles, I seek a sweet relief:
And shall I keep this burning wish to see the slave set free, Locked darkly in my secret heart, unshared and silently?

If I had been a friendless thing—if I had never known,

How swell the fountains of the heart beneath affection's tone,
I might have, careless, seen the leaf torn rudely from its stem,
But clinging as I do to you, can I but feel for them?

I could not brook to list the sad sweet music of a bird, Though it were sweeter melody than ever ear hath heard,
If cruel hands had quenched its light, that in the plaintive song,
It might the breathing memory of other days prolong.

And can I give my lip to taste the life-bought luxuries, wrung
From those on whom a darker night of anguish has been flung—
Or silently and selfishly enjoy my better lot, While those whom God hath bade me love, are wretched and forgot?

Oh no!—so blame me not, sweet friends, though I should sometimes seem Too much to press upon your ear an oft repeated theme;
The story of the negro's wrongs hath won me from my rest,—
And I must strive to wake for him an interest in your breast!

Six slave States added at a breath! One flourish of a pen,
And fetters shall be riveted on millions more of men!
One drop of ink to sign a name, and slavery shall find

For all her surplus flesh and blood, a market to her mind!

A market where good Democrats their fellow men may sell!

O, what a grin of fiendish glee runs round and round thro' hell!

How all the damned leap up for joy and half forget their fire,

To think men take such pains to claim the notice of God's ire.

Is't not enough that we have borne the sneer of all the world,

And bent to those whose haughty lips in scorn of us are curled?

Is't not enough that we must hunt their living chattels back,

And cheer the hungry bloodhounds on, that howl upon their track?

Is't not enough that we must bow to all that they decree,—

These cotton and tobacco lords, these pimps of slavery?

That we must yield our conscience up to glut Oppression's maw,

And break our faith with God to keep the letter of Man's law?

But must we sit in silence by, and see the chain and whip

Made firmer for all time to come in Slavery's bloody grip!

Must we not only half the guilt and all the shame endure,

But help to make our tyrant's throne of flesh and blood secure?

Is water running in our veins? Do we remember still

Old Plymouth rock, and Lexington, and glorious Bunker Hill?

The debt we owe our Father's graves? and to the yet unborn,

Whose heritage ourselves must make a thing of pride or scorn?

Grey Plymouth rock hath yet a tongue, and Concord is not dumb,

And voices from our father's graves, and from the future come;

They call on us to stand our ground, they charge us still to be

Not only free from chains ourselves, but foremost to make free!

Awake, New England! While you sleep the foes advance their lines;

Already on your stronghold's wall their bloody banner shines;

Awake! and hurl them back again in terror and despair,

The time has come for earnest deeds, we've not a man to spare.

RISE, FREEMEN, RISE.

Music by G.W.C.

The musical score is written in 3/4 time. It consists of three systems of music. Each system has a piano accompaniment on the left, indicated by a large curly brace, and a vocal line on the right. The piano part is written in treble and bass clefs. The vocal line is written in treble clef. The lyrics are: "Rise, freemen rise! the call goes forth, Attend the high com- mand; O - be-dience to the word of God, Through- out this guil - ty land: Throughout this guilty land." The score ends with a double bar line.

Rise, freemen rise! the call goes forth, Attend the high command; O - be-dience to the word of God, Throughout this guil - ty land: Throughout this guilty land.

Rise, freemen, rise! the call goes forth, Attend the high command;

Obedience to the word of God,

Throughout this guilty
land:

Throughout this guilty
land.

Rise, free the slave; oh, burst his chains,

And cast his fetters down; Let virtue be your country's pride,

Her diadem and crown.

Then shall the day at length arrive,

When all shall equal be,
And Freedom's banner, waving high,

Proclaim that all are free.

Remember Me.

O Thou, from whom all goodness flows!

I lift my heart to thee;
In all my wrongs, oppressions, woes,
Dear Lord! remember me.

Afflictions sore obstruct my way,

And ills I cannot flee; Lord! let my strength be as

And still remember me.

Oppressed with scourges, bonds, and grief,

This feeble body see;
Oh! give my burdened soul

Hear, and remember me.

D. C.

Our fellow countrymen in chains, Slaves in a land of light and law!

Slaves crouching on the very plains Where rolled the storm of Freedom's war!
A groan from Eutaw's haunted wood—A wail where Camden's martyrs fell—By every shrine of patriot blood, From Moultrie's wall and Jasper's well.

By storied hill and hallow'd grot,
By mossy wood and marshy glen,
Whence rang of old the rifle-shot,
And hurrying shout of Marion's men!
The groan of breaking hearts is there—
The falling lash—the fetter's clank!
Slaves—SLAVES are breathing in that air, Which old De Kalb and Sumter drank!

What, ho!—our countrymen in chains!
The whip on WOMAN'S shrinking flesh!
Our soil yet reddening with the stains, Caught from her scourging, warm and fresh!
What! mothers from their children riven!
What! God's own image bought and sold!
AMERICANS to market driven,
And barter'd as the brute for gold!

Speak! shall their agony of prayer Come thrilling to our hearts in vain?
To us, whose fathers scorn'd to bear
The paltry menace of a chain;
To us, whose boast is loud and long Of holy Liberty and Light—Say, shall these writhing slaves of

wrong,
Plead vainly for their plunder'd Right?

Shall every flap of England's flag Proclaim that all around are free, From "farthest Ind" to each blue crag That beetles o'er the Western Sea?
And shall we scoff at Europe's kings,
When Freedom's fire is dim with us,
And round our country's altar clings The damning shade of Slavery's curse?

Just God! and shall we calmly rest, The Christian's scorn—the Heathen's
mirth—
Content to live the lingering jest
And by-word of a mocking Earth?
Shall our own glorious land retain That curse which Europe scorns to bear?
Shall our own brethren drag the chain Which not even Russia's menials wear?

Down let the shrine of Moloch sink,
And leave no traces where it stood;
No longer let its idol drink
His daily cup of human blood:
But rear another altar there,
To Truth, and Love, and Mercy given,
And Freedom's gift, and Freedom's
prayer,
Shall call an answer down from Heaven!

Myron Holley.

BY W.H. BURLEIGH.

Yes—fame is his:—but not the fame For which the conqueror pants and strives,
Whose path is tracked through blood and flame,
And over countless human lives!
His name no armed battalions hail With bugle shriek or thundering gun,
No widows curse him, as they wail
For slaughtered husband and for son.

Amid the moral strife alone,
He battled fearlessly and long,
And poured, with clear, untrembling
tone,
Rebuke upon the hosts of Wrong—
To break Oppression's cruel rod, He dared the perils of the fight,
And in the name of FREEDOM'S GOD Struck boldly for the TRUE and RIGHT!

With faith, whose eye was never dim,
The triumph, yet afar, he saw, When, bonds smote off from soul and
limb,
And freed alike by Love and Law,
The slave—no more a slave—shall stand Erect—and loud, from sea to sea, Exultant burst o'er all the land

The glorious song of jubilee!

Why should we mourn, thy labor done,
That thou art called to thy reward;
Rest, Freedom's war-worn champion!
Rest, faithful soldier of the LORD!
For oh, not vainly hast thou striven, Through storm, and gloom, and deepest night—
Not vainly hath thy life been given For GOD, for FREEDOM, and for RIGHT.

Up the hill side, down the glen,
Rouse the sleeping citizen; Summon out the might of men!
Like a lion growling low,
Like a nightstorm rising slow,
Like the tread of unseen foe.

It is coming—it is nigh!
Stand your homes and altars by;
On your own free thresholds
die.
Clang the bells in all your spires;
On the gray hills of your sires Fling to heaven your signal fires.

Whoso shrinks or falters now, Whoso to the yoke would bow,
Brand the craven on his brow.
Freedom's soil hath only place

For a free and fearless race—None for traitors false and base.

Take your land of sun and bloom;
Only leave to Freedom room For her plough, and forge, and loom.
Take your slavery-blackened vales;
Leave us but our own free gales, Blowing on our thousand sails.

Onward with your fell design; Dig the gulf and draw the line; Fire beneath your feet the mine:
Deeply, when the wide abyss Yawns between your land and this,
Shall ye feel your helplessness.

By the hearth, and in the bed, Shaken by a look or tread, Ye shall own a guilty dread.
And the curse of unpaid toil, Downward through your generous soil, Like a fire shall burn and spoil.

Our bleak hills shall bud and blow, Vines our rocks shall overgrow, Plenty in our valleys flow;—

And when vengeance clouds your skies, Hither shall ye turn your eyes,
As the damned on Paradise!

We but ask our rocky strand, Freedom's true and brother band, Freedom's strong and honest
hand,
Valleys by the slave untrod,
And the Pilgrim's mountain sod, Blessed of our fathers' God!

From the hills, and the streams, and the

And the Liberty hosts never, never will

By free principles strengthened, each

The armor, the armor that girds every Fight till every foe retires From your hallowed soil.

Sons of Pilgrim Fathers blest, Pilgrim Mothers gone to rest, Listen to their high behest, Strike for Liberty.

Ministers of God to men, Heed ye not the nation's sin?
Heaven's blessing can ye win
 If ye falter now?
Men of blood now ask your O'er your heads their banners float;

Raise, Oh raise the warning

 God and duty call!

Men of justice, bold and brave,
To the ballot-box and save Freedom from her opening

 Onward! brothers, on!

Christian patriots, tried and Freedom's eyes now turn to Foes are many—are ye few?

Gideon's God is yours!

On to Victory.

BY REV. MRS. MARTYN.

Children of the glorious dead, Who for freedom fought and bled,
With her banner o'er you spread,

On to victory.

Not for stern ambition's prize, Do our hopes and wishes rise;
Lo, our leader from the skies, Bids us do or die.

Ours is not the tented field—We no earthly weapons wield

Light and love, our sword and shield,

Truth our panoply.

This is proud oppression's
hour; Storms are round us; shall we cower?

While beneath a despot's power

Groans the suffering
slave?

While on every southern gale, Comes the helpless captive's tale,
And the voice of woman's wail,

 And of man's despair?
While our homes and rights are dear, Guarded still with watchful
fear,
Shall we coldly turn our ear From the suppliant's
prayer?

Never! by our Country's shame—
Never! by a Saviour's claim, To the men of every name,
 Whom he died to save.
Onward, then, ye fearless band—
Heart to heart, and hand to hand;
Yours shall be the patriot's stand—
 Or the martyr's grave.

For man's eternal equal right,

Oh that's the man for me.

No, no, he's not the man for Whose voice o'er hill and Breaks forth for glorious liberty,

But binds himself, the

The mightiest of the noble

Who prays and toils the

With head, and heart, and

Oh that's the man for me.

The first system of the musical score is in 4/4 time, key of B-flat major. It features a piano accompaniment with a treble and bass staff. The melody is in the treble staff, and the lyrics are written below the notes.

Storm-cloud and wintry wind Welcome them home ; Yet where the sounding gale Pilgrims and wan-der - ers,

The second system of the musical score continues the melody and accompaniment. It includes a repeat sign at the end of the first line of music.

Howls to the sea, There their song peals a-long, Deep toned and free.
Hith-er we come ; Where the free dare to be, This is our home.

The third system of the musical score concludes the piece. It features a final cadence in the piano accompaniment.

Over the mountain wave
See where they come;

Storm-cloud and wintry wind Welcome them home;
Yet where the sounding gale Howls to the sea,
There their song peals along,
Deep toned and free.
Pilgrims and wanderers,
Hither we come;
Where the free dare to be,
This is our home.

England hath sunny dales, Dearly they bloom;
Scotia hath heather-hills, Sweet their perfume:
Yet through the wilderness Cheerful we stray, Native land, native land—
Home far away!
Pilgrims, &c.

Dim grew the forest path, Onward they trod:
Firm beat their noble hearts, Trusting in God!
Gray men and blooming maids, High rose their song—Hear it sweep, clear and deep Ever along!
Pilgrims, &c.

Not theirs the glory-wreath, Torn by the blast;
Heavenward their holy steps, Heavenward they passed!

Green be their mossy graves!
Ours be their fame, While their song peals along,
Ever the same!
Pilgrims, &c.

The Bondman.

FROM THE LIBERATOR.

Feebly the bondman toiled, Sadly he wept—
Then to his wretched cot Mournfully crept:
How doth his free-born soul
 Pine 'neath his chain!
Slavery! Slavery!
 Dark is thy reign.

Long ere the break of day, Roused from repose, Wearily toiling
 Till after its close—Praying for freedom,
 He spends his last breath:
Liberty! Liberty!
 Give me, or death.

When, when, oh Lord! will right Triumph o'er wrong?
Tyrants oppress the weak, Oh Lord! how long?
Hark! hark! a peal resounds From shore to shore—Tyranny! Tyranny!
 Thy reign is o'er.

E'en now the morning Gleams from the East—Despots are feeling Their triumph is past—Strong hearts are answering To freedom's loud call—

Liberty! Liberty!
Full and for all.

We have a goodly clime, Broad vales and streams we boast;

Our mountain frontiers frown sublime, Old Ocean guards our coast.

Suns bless our harvests fair,
With fervid smile serene,
But a dark shade is gathering
there,
What can its blackness mean?

We have a birth-right proud, For our young sons to claim—
An eagle soaring o'er the cloud,
In freedom and in fame.

We have a scutcheon bright,
By our dead fathers bought;
A fearful blot distains its white—Who hath such evil wrought?

Our banner o'er the sea Looks forth with starry eye, Emblazoned glorious, bold and free,
A letter on the sky—

What hand with shameful stain, Hath marred its heavenly blue?
The yoke, the fasces, and the

chain,
Say, are these emblems true?

This day doth music rare Swell through our nation's bound,
But Afric's wailing mingles
there,
And Heaven doth hear the sound.

O God of power! we turn In penitence to thee, Bid our loved land the lesson learn—
To bid the slave be free.

But not with martial steel,

Strong in their righteous

And vain the tyrant's mail, Against their battle-hail,

Of tortured slave!

Sing Me a Triumph Song.

Sing me a triumph song,

Great God, to thee!
Thine be the glory bright, Source of all power and

For thou hast said, in might,
Man shall be free.

Sing me a triumph song,
Let all the sound prolong,
Air, earth, and sea,
Down falls the tyrant's power,
See his dread minions cower;
Now, from this glorious hour,
Man will be free.

Sing me a triumph song,
Sing in the mighty throng, Sing Jubilee!
Let the broad welkin ring, While to heaven's mighty King,
Honor and praise we sing,
For man is free.

Wake sons of the Pilgrims, and look to your right! The blood-purchased freedom—'tis yield-ing like slaves. Then hal- loo, halloo hal-loo to the contest, Awake from your slum-bers, no long-er de - lay, But strug-gle for free-dom, while strug-gle you may— Then

Wake, sons of the Pilgrims, and look to your right!

The despots of Slav'ry are up in their might:

Indulge not in sleep, it's like digging the graves

Of blood-purchased freedom—'tis yielding like slaves.

Then halloo, halloo, halloo to the contest,

Awake from your slumbers, no longer delay,

But struggle for freedom, while struggle you may—

Then rally, rally, rally, rally, rally, rally, While our forests shall wave or while rushes a river,

Oh, yield not your birth-right! maintain it for ever!

Wake, Sons of the Pilgrims! why slumber ye on?
Your chains are now forging, your fetters are done;
Oh! sleep not, like Samson, on Slavery's foul arm,
For, Delilah-like, she's now planning your harm.
Then halloo, halloo, halloo, to the contest!
Awake from your sleeping—nor slumber
again, Once bound in your fetters, you'll struggle in vain;
While your eye-balls may move, O wake up now, or never—Wake, freemen! awake, or you're ruined forever!

Yes, freemen are waking! we fling to the breeze,
The bright flag of freedom, the banner of Peace;
The slave long forgotten, forlorn, and
alone,
We hail as a brother—our own mother's son!
Then halloo, halloo, halloo, to the contest!
For freedom we rally—for freedom to all—
To rescue the slave, and ourselves too from thrall.
We rally, rally, rally, rally, rally—

While a slave shall remain, bound, the weak by the stronger, We will never disband, but strive harder and longer.

Our countrymen are dying Beneath their cankering
chains,
Full many a heart is sighing, Where nought but slav'ry reigns;
No note of joy and gladness, No voice with freedom's lay, Fall on them in their sadness,
 To wipe those tears away.

Where proud Potomac dashes Along its northern strand, Where Rappahannock lashes Virginia's sparkling sand; Where Eutaw, famed in story, Flows swift to Santee's stream,
There, there in grief and gory,
 The pining slave is seen!

And shall New England's daughters,
 Descendants of the free, Beside whose far-famed waters
 Is heard sweet minstrelsy—

Shall they, when hearts are breaking,

And woman weeps in woe, Shall they, all listless waiting,
No hearts of pity show.

No! let the shout for freedom Ring out a certain peal, Let sire and youthful maiden,
All who have hearts to feel,
Awake! and with the blessing Of Him who came to save,
A holy, peaceful triumph, Shall greet the kneeling slave!

We ask not Martial Glory.

We ask not "martial glory," Nor "battles bravely won;"
We tell no boastful story To laud our "favorite son;"
We do not seek to gather From glory's field of blood,
The laurels of the warrior, Steeped in the crimson flood—

But we can boast that Birney Holds not the tyrant's rod, Nor binds in chains and fetters,
The image of his God;
No vassal, at his bidding,
Is doomed the lash to feel;
No menial crouches near him,
No Charley's^[3] at his heel.

His heart is free from murder,
His hand without its stain;
His head and heart united,
To loose the bondman's
chain:
His deeds of noble daring, Shall make the tyrant cower;
Oppression flees before him,
With all its boasted power.

Soon shall the voice of freedom,

O'er earth its echoes roll—
And earth's rejoicing millions Be free, from pole to pole.
Then rally round your leader, Ye friends of liberty;
And let the shout for Birney, Ring out o'er land and sea.

Blest is the man whose tender heart

Feels all another's pain,
To whom the supplicating eye
Was never raised in vain,
Was never raised in vain.

Whose breast expands with generous warmth,

A stranger's woe to feel,
And bleeds in pity o'er the wound,
He wants the power to heal,
He wants the power to heal.

He spreads his kind supporting arms,

To every child of grief;
His secret bounty largely flows,
And brings unasked relief.

To gentle offices of love His feet are never slow;

He views, through mercy's melting eye,
A brother in his foe.

To him protection shall be shown,
And mercy from above Descend on those, who thus fulfil
The perfect law of love.

Oh! Charity!

Oh charity! thou heavenly grace,

All tender, soft, and kind,
A friend to all the human race,
To all that's good inclined.

The man of charity extends To all his helping hand;
His kindred, neighbors, foes, and friends,
His pity may command.

The sick, the prisoner, deaf, and blind,
And all the sons of grief,
In him a benefactor find;
He loves to give relief.

'Tis love that makes religion sweet
'Tis love that makes us rise;
With willing minds, and ardent feet,
To yonder happy skies.

THE MERCY SEAT.

Words by Mrs. Sigourney. Music by G.W.C.

From eve - ry stor - my wind that blows,
There is a place where Je - - sus sheds

From eve - ry swell - ing tide of The oil of glad - ness on our woes, There is a calm a sure re-heads, A place than all be - side more

From every stormy wind that blows,
From every swelling tide of woes,
There is a calm, a sure retreat—
Our refuge is the Mercy-seat.

There is a place where Jesus sheds
The oil of gladness on our heads, A place than all beside more sweet—
We seek the blood-bought Mercy-seat.

There is a spot where spirits blend, Where friend holds fellowship with friend;
Though sundered far, by faith we meet, Around one common Mercy-Seat.

Ah! whither could we flee for aid, When hunted, scourged, oppressed, dismayed,— Or how our bloody foes defeat,
Had suffering slaves no Mercy-Seat!

Oh! let these hands forget their skill, These tongues be silent, cold, and still,

These throbbing hearts forget to beat,
If we forget the Mercy-Seat.

Friend of the Friendless.

God of my life! to thee I call, Afflicted at thy feet I fall;
When the great water-floods
prevail,
Leave not my trembling heart to fail.

Friend of the friendless and the faint!
Where should I lodge my deep complaint?
Where but with thee, whose open door Invites the helpless and the poor?

Did ever mourner plead with thee,
And thou refuse that mourner's plea?
Does not thy word still fixed remain,
That none shall seek thy face in vain?

Poor though I am, despised, forgot, Yet God, my God forgets me not;
And he is safe, he must succeed,

For whom the Lord vouchsafes to plead.

Wake ye numbers! from your slumbers Hear the song of freedom pour!
By its shaking, fiercely breaking,
Every chain upon our shore.
Flags are waving, all tyrants braving, Proudly, freely, o'er our plains;
Let no minions check our pinions, While a single grief remains.
Proud oblations, thou Queen of nations!
Have been poured upon they waters;
Afric's bleeding sons and daughters,
Now before us, loud implore us, Looking to Jehovah's throne, Chains are wearing, hearts despairing,
Will ye hear a nation's moan?
Soothe their sorrow, ere the morrow Change their aching hearts to stone:
Then the light of nature's smile Freedom's realm shall bless the while;
And the pleasure mercy brings Flow from all her latent springs; Delight shall spread, shall spread her shining wings, Rejoicing, Rejoicing, Rejoicing.

Daily, nightly, burning brightly, Glory's pillar fills the air;
Hearts are waking, chains are breaking,

Freedom bids her sons prepare:
O'er the ocean, in proud devotion, Incense rises to the skies;
From our mountains, o'er our fountains, See, our Eagle proudly flies!
What deploring impedes his soaring?
Millions still in bondage sighing!
Long in deep oppression lying!
Shall their story mar our glory?
Must their life in sorrow flow?
Tears are falling! fetters galling!
Listen to the cry of woe!
Still oppressing! never blessing!
Shall their grief no ending know?
Yes! our nation yet shall feel;
Time shall break the chain of steel;
Then the slave shall nobly stand;
Peace shall smile with lustre bland;
Glory shall crown our happy land—Forever.

Come on, my partners in distress,

My comrades in this wilderness,

Who groan beneath your chains;

A while forget your griefs and fears,

And look beyond this vale of tears,

To yon celestial plains.

Beyond the bounds of time and space,

Look forward to that heavenly place,

Which mortals never trod;
On faith's strong eagle pinions rise,

Work out your passage to the skies,

And scale the mount of God.

If, like our Lord, we suffer
here,

We shall before his face
appear,

And at his side sit down;
To patient faith the prize is sure,

For all who to the end endure Shall wear a glorious crown.

Thrice blessed, exalted, blissful hope!

It lifts our fainting spirits up,

It brings to life the dead;

Our bondage here will soon be past, Then we shall rise and reign
at last,
Triumphant with our Head.

Come and see the Works of God.

Lift up to God the shout of joy,
Let all the earth its powers employ,
 To sound his glorious praise; Say, unto God—"How great art thou!
Thy foes before thy presence
bow!
 How gracious are thy ways!

"To thee all lands their homage bring,
They raise the song, they shout, they sing
 The honors of thy name."
Come! see the wondrous works of God;
How dreadful is his vengeful rod!
 How wide extends his fame!

He made a highway through the sea,
His people, long-enslaved, to
free,
 And give them Canaan's
land;

Through endless years his reign extends,
His piercing eye to earth he bends—

Ye despots! fear his hand.

O! bless our God, lift up your voice

Ye people! sing aloud—rejoice—

His mighty praise declare;
The Lord hath made our bondage cease, Broke off our chains, brought sure release,

And turned to praise our prayer.

Hark! a voice from heaven proclaiming,

Comfort to the mourning

God has heard him long complaining,

And extends his arm to

Proud oppression
Soon shall find a shameful

Proud oppression,

See, the light of truth is Full and clear on every

And the voice of mercy
speaking,

Now is heard through all the land:

Firm and fearless,
See the friends of freedom
stand.

Lo! the nation is arousing

From its slumber long and deep;
And the friends of God are waking,
 Never, never more to sleep,
 While a bondman,
 In his chains remains to weep.

Long, too long, have we been dreaming O'er our country's sin and shame:
Let us now, the time
redeeming,
 Press the helpless captive's claim—Till exulting,
 He shall cast aside his
chain.

One blot upon our name?
Is our proud record written

Upon the scroll of fame?
Our banner floateth by the

Our flag upon the sea;

We shall be truly free!

The Freed Slave.

Yet once again, once more
again,

My bark bounds o'er the wave;

They know not, who ne'er clanked the chain,

What 'tis to be a slave:
To sit alone, beside the wood,
And gaze upon the sky:
This may, indeed, be solitude,
But 'tis not slavery.

Fatigued with labor's noontide task,

To sigh in vain for sleep;
Or faintly smile, our griefs to mask,

When 't would be joy to weep;
To court the shade of leafy bower,

Thirst for the freedom
wave,
But to obtain denied the power—

This is to be a slave!

Son of the sword! on honor's field

'Tis thine to find a grave;
Yet, when from life's worst ill

'twould shield,
It comes not to the slave.
The lightsome to the heavy heart,
The laugh changed to the sigh;
To live from all we love apart

Oh! this is slavery.

The Liberty Flag.

ALTERED FROM J.H. AIKMAN.

Fling abroad its folds to the cooling breeze,

Let it float at the mast-head
high;

And gather around, all hearts resolved,

To sustain it there or die:
An emblem of peace and hope to the world,

Unstained let it ever be;
And say to the world,
where'er it waves,

Our flag is the flag of the
free!

That banner proclaims to the list'ning earth,

That the reign of base tyrants is o'er,

The galling chain of the cruel lord,

Shall enslave mankind no more:

An emblem of hope to the poor and crushed,

O place it where all may see;

And shout with glad voice as you raise it high,

Our flag is the flag of the

free!

Then on high, on high let that banner wave,

And lead us the foe to meet,

Let it float in triumph o'er our heads,

Or be our winding sheet;
And never, oh, never be it furled,

'Till it wave o'er earth and sea;

And all mankind shall swell the shout

Our flag is the flag of the
free.

Oft in the Chilly Night.

BY PIERPONT.

Oft in the chilly night, Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
When all her silvery light
The moon is pouring round me, Beneath its ray I kneel and pray
That God would give some token That slavery's chains on Southern plains, Shall all ere long be broken:
Yes, in the chilly night, Though slavery's chain has bound me, Kneel I, and feel the might Of God's right arm around me.

When at the driver's call,
In cold or sultry weather, We slaves, both great and small,
Turn out to toil together, I feel like one from whom the sun
Of hope has long departed;
And morning's light, and weary night, Still find me broken hearted:

Thus, when the chilly breath Of night is sighing round
me, Kneel I, and wish that death In his cold chain had bound me.

BY PIERPONT.

The bondmen are free in the isles of the main!

The chains from their limbs they are flinging!

They stand up as men!—never tyrant
again,

In the pride of his heart, shall God's image profane!

It is Liberty's song that is ringing!
Hark! loud comes the cry o'er the bounding sea,

"Freedom! Freedom! Freedom, our joy is in thee!"

Alas! that to-day, on Columbia's shore,

The groans of her slaves are resounding!

On plains of the South their life-blood they pour!

O, Freemen! blest Freemen! your help they implore!

It is Slavery's wail that is sounding!
Hark! loud comes the cry on the Southern gale,

"Freedom! Freedom! Freedom or death, must prevail!"

O ye who are blest with fair Liberty's light,

With courage and hope all abounding,

With weapons of love be ye bold for the right!

By the preaching of truth put oppression to flight!

Then, your altars triumphant surrounding,

Loud, loud let the anthem of joy ring out!

"Freedom! Freedom!" list all the world to the shout!

With thirst of gold and power unbounded,

To mete and vend God's light and air;
Like beasts of burden, slaves are loaded, Till life's poor toilsome day is o'er;

While they in vain for right implore;
And shall they longer still be goaded?
Have pity on the slave;
Take courage from God's word;
Toil on, toil on, all hearts resolved these captives shall be free.

O Liberty! can man e'er bind thee?
Can overseers quench thy flame?
Can dungeons, bolts, or bars confine thee,
Or threats thy Heaven born spirit tame?
Or threats thy Heaven born spirit tame?
Too long the slave has groaned bewailing
The power these heartless tyrants wield;
Yet free them not by sword or shield,
For with men's heart's they're unavailing,
Have pity on the slave:
Take courage from God's word;
Vote on! vote on! all hearts resolved—these

Are ye truly free and brave?
Are ye not base slaves indeed, Men unworthy to be freed?

Sons to breathe God's

If ye hear without a blush,

chains;
Answer! are ye fit to be Mothers of the brave and

Is true freedom but to break Fetters for our own dear sake,
And, with leathern hearts forget That we owe mankind a debt?
No! true freedom is to share
All the chains our brothers
wear,
And with hand and heart to be Earnest to make others free.

They are slaves who fear to speak
For the fallen and the weak; They are slaves, who will not choose Hatred, scoffing, and abuse, Rather than, in silence, shrink From the truth they needs must think;
They are slaves, who dare not be
In the right with two or three.

That's my Country.

Does the land, in native might,
Pant for Liberty and Right?
Long to cast from human kind Chains of body and of mind—That's my country, that's the land
I can love with heart and hand, O'er her miseries weep and sigh,
For her glory live and die.

Does the land her banner
wave,
Most invitingly, to save;
Wooing to her arms of love, Strangers who would freemen prove?
That's the land to which I cling,
Of her glories I can sing,
On her altar nobly swear Higher still her fame to rear.

Does the land no conquest make,
But the war for honor's sake
Count the greatest triumph won,

That which most of good has done—
That's the land approved of God; That's the land whose stainless sod O'er my sleeping dust shall bloom,
Noblest land and noblest tomb!

Unite! unite! unite!

March on! and vote the hireling down,

March on! march on!
march on!

Our blighted land with blessings crown,

March on! march on!
march on!

Shall Manhood ever wear the chain?

Shall Freedom look to us in vain?

Up to the struggle! Strike
again!

March on! march on!
march on!

Hurrah! the word pass down the line,

Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Birney's and Morris' name shall shine,

Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Like comets, on their country's page, Without a cloud, undimmed by age, Revered by patriot and by sage;
Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!

Birney and Liberty.

Hurrah! the ball is rolling on,
Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
In spite of whig or loco don,
Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Our country still has hopes to rise,
The bravest efforts win the prize, Hurrah! &c.

With joy elate our friends
appear,
Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Our vaunting foes are filled with fear,
Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Ten thousand slaves have run away
From Georgia to Canada;
Hurrah! &c.

Lo! all the world for Birney now,
Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
See! as he comes the parties
bow,
Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
No iron mixed with miry clay,
Will ever do, the people say,
Hurrah! &c.

Then up, ye hearties, one and all!

Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Be faithful to your country's call;

Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Let none the vote of freedom shun, Run to the meeting—run, run, run!

Hurrah, &c.

Be Birney's name the one you choose,

Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
Let not a soul his ballot lose,

Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
No other man in this our day
Will ever do, the people say:

Hurrah! &c.

Christian Mother.

BY MISS C.

Christian mother, when thy prayer,
Trembles on the twilight air,
And thou askest God to keep In their waking and their sleep,
Those, whose love is more to thee
Than the wealth of land or sea

Think of those who wildly mourn
For the loved ones from them torn.

Christian daughter, sister, wife,
Ye who wear a guarded life, Ye, whose bliss hangs not,
thank God,
On a tyrant's word or nod, Will ye hear, with careless eye,
Of the wild, despairing cry, Rising up from human hearts,
As their latest bliss departs.

Blest ones, whom no hands on earth,
Dare to wrench from home and hearth, Ye, whose hearts are sheltered

well,
By affection's holy spell; Oh, forget not those for whom Life is nought but changeless gloom!
O'er whose days, so woebegone, Hope may paint no brighter dawn.

Her lamp shall nightly trim, Till thou, imperious planet, Shall in her light grow dim;

And so shall wax the Party,
Now feeble at its birth, Till Liberty shall cover
This tyrant trodden earth.

That party, as we term it,
The Party of the Whole—
Has for its firm foundation,
The substance of the soul;
It groweth out of Reason,
The strongest soil below;
The smaller is its budding,
The more its room to grow!

Then rally to its banners, Supported by the true—
The weakest are the waning,
The many are the few:
Of what is small, but living, God makes himself the nurse;
While "Onward" cry the voices
Of all his universe.

Our plant is of the cedar,
That knoweth not decay:
Its growth shall bless the mountains, Till mountains pass away.
God speed the infant party,
The party of the whole—
And surely he will do it, While reason is its soul.

BE FREE, O MAN, BE FREE.

The storm-winds wildly blowing,

The bursting billows mock,
As with their foam-crests glowing,
They dash the sea-girt rock;
Amid the wild commotion,
The revel of the sea,
A voice is on the ocean,
Be free, O man, be free.

Behold the sea-brine leaping High in the murky air;
List to the tempest sweeping In chainless fury there.
What moves the mighty torrent,
And bids it flow abroad?
Or turns the rapid current?
What, but the voice of God?

Then, answer, is the spirit Less noble or less free?
From whom does it inherit The doom of slavery?
When man can bind the waters,
That they no longer roll, Then let him forge the fetters
To clog the human soul.

Till then a voice is stealing From earth and sea, and sky,
And to the soul revealing
Its immortality.
The swift wind chants the numbers

Careering o'er the sea, And earth aroused from slumbers, Re-echoes, "Man, be free."

Arouse! Arouse!

Arouse, arouse, arouse!
Ye bold New England men!
No more with sullen brows, Remain as ye have been:
Your country's freedom calls, Once bought by patriots'
blood;
Rouse, or that freedom falls Beneath the tyrant's rod!

Three million men in chains,
Your friendly aid implore; Slight you the piteous strains That from their bosoms pour?
Shall it be told in story,
Or troll'd in burning song,
New England's boasted glory Forgot the bondman's wrong?

Shall freeman's sons be taunted,
That freedom's spirit's fled;
That what the fathers vaunted,
With sordid sons is dead?
That they in grovelling gain Have lost their ancient fire,
And 'neath the despot's chain, Let liberty expire?

Oh no, your father's bones Would cry out from the ground;
Ay, e'en New England's stones Would echo on the sound: Rouse, then, New England
men!
Rally in freedom's name!
In your bosoms once again Light up the sleeping flame!

Let the floods clap their hands, Let the mountains rejoice, Let all the glad lands Breathe a ju - bi - lant voice; The sun that now sets on the waves of the sea Shall gild with his ris - ing the land of the free.

The image shows a musical score for a song. It consists of four systems of music. Each system has a vocal line (treble clef) and a piano accompaniment (bass clef). The key signature is one flat (B-flat) and the time signature is 2/4. The lyrics are: 'Let the floods clap their hands, Let the mountains re-joice, Let all the glad lands Breathe a ju - bi - lant voice; The sun that now sets on the waves of the sea Shall gild with his ris - ing the land of the free.'

Let the floods clap their hands,
Let the mountains rejoice,

Let all the glad lands Breathe a jubilant voice;
The sun that now sets on the waves of the sea Shall gild with his rising the land of the free.

Let the islands be glad!
For their King in his might,
Who his glory hath clad With a garment of light, In the waters the beams of his chambers hath laid,
And in the green waters his pathway hath made.

No more shall the deep, Lend its awe-stricken waves,
In their caverns to steep
Its wild burden of slaves;
The Lord sitteth King—sitteth King on the flood,
He heard, and hath answered the voice of their blood.

Dispel the blue haze, Golden fountain of morn!
With meridian blaze
The wide ocean adorn:
The sunlight has touched the glad waves of the sea,
And day now illumines the land of the free.

Sad my face, more sad my

From home, from all I had to

A loving mother, my sister, my brother,

For chains and lash in hopeless misery,

Children try it, could you
try it;

But one day to live in slavery,

Children try it, try it, try it;

Come, come, give me liberty.

Ere I close my eyes to sleep, Thoughts of home keep coming over me;
All alone I wake and weep—Yet mother hears not—no one pities me—Never smiling, sick, forlorn,
Oh that I had ne'er been born!
I should not sorrow to die to-

Then mother earth would kindly shelter me; Children try it, could you
try it!
Give me freedom, yes, from misery!
Children try it, try it, try it!
Come, come, give me Liberty!

Vote for the Slave, for now

Break every chain and every

Vote not for Clay nor James

Sinner! man! &c.

Come let us go for James G.

Who sells not flesh and blood

He is the man you all can see,
Who gave his slaves their

We hail thee as an honest

To thrust a blow at Slavery's

At dead of night, when others sleep,

Near Hell I took my station;

And from that dungeon, dark and deep,

O'erheard this conversation:

"Hail, Prince of Darkness, ever hail,

Adored by each infernal, I come among your gang to wail,

And taste of death eternal."

"Where are you from?" the fiend demands,

"What makes you look so frantic?

Are you from Carolina's strand,

Just west of the Atlantic?
Are you that man of blood and birth, Devoid of human feeling?
The wretch I saw, when last
on earth,
In human cattle dealing?

"Whose soul, with blood and rapine stain'd,
With deeds of crime to dark it;
Who drove God's image, starved and chained,
To sell like beasts in market?
Who tore the infant from the breast,
That you might sell its mother?
Whose craving mind could never rest, Till you had sold a brother?

"Who gave the sacrament to those Whose chains and handcuffs rattle?
Whose backs soon after felt the blows,
More heavy than thy cattle?"

"I'm from the South," the ghost replies,
"And I was there a teacher; Saw men in chains, with laughing eyes:

I was a Southern Preacher!

"In tassled pulpits, gay and fine,

I strove to please the tyrants,

To prove that slavery is divine,

And what the Scripture warrants.

And when I saw the horrid sight,

Of slaves by tortures dying,
And told their masters all was right,

I knew that I was lying.

"I knew all this, and who can doubt,

I felt a sad misgiving?

But still, I knew, if I spoke
out,

That I should lose my living.

They made me fat, they paid me well,

To preach down abolition,
I slept—I died—I woke in Hell,

How altered my condition!

"I now am in a sea of fire,

Whose fury ever rages;

I am a slave, and can't get
free,

Through everlasting ages.

Yes! when the sun and moon shall fade,

And fire the rocks dissever, I must sink down beneath the shade,

And feel God's wrath for ever."

Our Ghost stood trembling all the while—

He saw the scene transpiring;

With soul aghast and visage sad,

All hope was now retiring.
The Demon cried, on vengeance bent,

"I say, in haste, retire!
And you shall have a negro sent

To attend and punch the fire."

Bearing on its train the story, Liberty! a nation's glory.

Roll it along, thro' the Freedom's car,

Men of various predilections, Frightened, run in all

Merchants, editors,

Lawyers, priests, and politicians.

Get out of the way! every Clear the track of

Let the ministers and churches

Leave behind sectarian

Jump on board the Car of Ere it be too late to need them.

Sound the alarm! Pulpits

Ere too late you see your blunder!

Politicians gazed, astounded, When, at first, our bell resounded:

Freight trains are coming, tell these foxes,
With our votes and ballot boxes.

Jump for your lives!
politicians,
From your dangerous, false

Railroads to Emancipation Cannot rest on Clay

And the tracks of 'The Polk-

Are but railroads to perdition!

Pull up the rails!
Emancipation

Cannot rest on such foundation.

All true friends of Emancipation,

Haste to Freedom's railroad station;

Quick into the cars get seated,
All is ready and completed.—

Put on the steam! all are crying,

And the liberty flags are flying.

On, triumphant see them bearing,

Through sectarian rubbish tearing;

The bell and whistle and the steaming,

Startle thousands from their dreaming.

Look out for the cars while the bell rings!

Ere the sound your funeral knell rings.

See the people run to meet us;
At the depôts thousands greet us;

All take seats with exultation,
In the Car Emancipation.

Huzza! Huzza!!
Emancipation

Soon will bless our happy nation.

And each bold heart is

The day draws nigh!—hurrah,

Just ere the dawn the darkness deepest Surrounds the earth as with a pall;
Dry up thy tears, O thou that

That on thy sight the rays may fall!
No doubt let now thy bosom mar:
Send up the shout—hurrah,

hurrah!

Shall we distrust the God of Heaven?—

He every doubt and fear will quell;
By him the captive's chains are riven—

So let us loud the chorus swell!
Man shall be free from cruel law,— Man shall be MAN!—hurrah, hurrah!

No more again shall it be granted

To southern overseers to rule—
No more will pilgrims' sons be taunted

With cringing low in slavery's school.
So clear the way for Freedom's car—
The free shall rule!—hurrah, hurrah!

Send up the shout Emancipation—

From heaven let the echoes bound—Soon will it bless this franchised nation,—

Come raise again the stirring sound?
Emancipation near and far—

Swell up the shout—hurrah!
hurrah!

Dim at first—but widely

Life and health and comfort

O'er the shades of moral Hail it, Bondmen!

Slavery cannot bear its Few its rays—'t is but the

Of the reign of truth and peace;

Joy to slaves—yet sad forewarning,

To the tyrants of our race;

Tremble, Tyrants!

Soon your cruel pow'r will Earth is brighten'd by the Ransom'd slaves shall tell the Comfort to the mourning

God has heard him long

And extends his arm to

Proud Oppression

Soon shall find a shameful

See! the light of truth is Full and clear on ev'ry

And the voice of mercy,
speaking,

Now is heard through all
the land;

Firm and fearless,

See the friends of Freedom

Lo! the nation is arousing

From its slumbers, long and deep;

And the church of God is waking,

Never, never more to sleep,

While a bondman,

In his chains remains to weep.

Long, too long, have we been
dreaming,

O'er our country's sin and shame;

Let us now, the time
redeeming,

Press the helpless captive's
claim,

Till, exulting,

He shall cast aside his
chain.

The bravest of the valiant few,
Our country's hope, our country's pride!
In Freedom's battle take the

We hail thee as an honest
man.

Thy country, in her darkest hour, When heroes bend at Mammon's shrine,
And virtue sells herself to Power,
Lights up in smiles at deeds like thine!
Then welcome to the battle's

We hail thee as an HONEST
MAN!

Thy own example leads the way
From Egypt's gloom to Canaan's light;

Thy justice is the breaking day
Of Slavery's long and guilty night;
Then welcome to the battle's van—
We hail thee as an honest
man.

Thine is the eagle eye to see,
And thine a human heart to

A worthy leader of the free, We'll trust thee with a Nation's weal;
We'll trust thee in the battle's

We hail thee as an honest
man.

An honest man—an honest man—
God made thee on his

To do the right and brave the

To stand in Freedom's

Then welcome to the Chorus.

The tyrant's grapple, by our vote, We'll loosen from our brother's throat,
With Washington we here agree,
The vote's the weapon of the free.

We'll scatter not the precious power
On parties that to slavery
cower;
But make it one against the wrong,
Till down it comes, a million strong.
The tyrant's grapple, &c.

We'll bake the dough-face with our vote,
Who stood the scorching when we wrote;
And paler than the milky way, We'll bake the plastic face of CLAY.
The tyrant's grapple, &c.

Our vote shall teach all statesmen law,
Who in the Southern harness draw;
So well contented to be

They fain would prove their fathers knaves!
The tyrant's grapple, &c.

We'll not provoke our wives to use A power that we through fear abuse;

roll on the lib - er - ty ball—And roll on the lib-er - ty

Come all ye true friends of the nation, Attend to humanity's call;
 Come aid the poor slave's liberation,
 And roll on the liberty ball—
 And roll on the liberty ball—
 And roll on the liberty ball, Come aid the poor slave's liberation,
 And roll on the liberty ball.

The Liberty hosts are advancing—For freedom to all they declare;
 The down-trodden millions are sighing
 Come, break up our gloom of despair.

Come break up our gloom of despair, &c.

Ye Democrats, come to the rescue,
And aid on the liberty cause,
And millions will rise up and bless you With heart-cheering songs of applause,
With heart-cheering songs, &c.

Ye Whigs forsake CLAY and John Tyler!
And boldly step into our ranks;
We'll spread our pure banner still wider,
And invite all the friends of the banks,
And invite all the friends of the banks, &c.

And when we have formed the blest union
We'll firmly march on, one and all—We'll sing when we meet in communion,
And roll on the liberty ball,
And roll on the liberty ball, &c.

How can you stand halting while virtue Is sweetly appealing to all;
Then haste to the standard of duty,
And roll on the liberty ball;
And roll on the liberty ball, &c.

The question of test is now turning,
And freedom or slavery must fall, While hope in the bosom is burning,
We'll roll on the liberty ball;
We'll roll on the liberty ball, &c.

Ye freemen attend to your voting,
Your ballots will answer the call;
And while others attend to log-rolling,
We'll roll on the liberty ball—
We'll roll on the liberty ball, &c.

The Trumpet of Freedom.

HARK! hark! to the TRUMPET of FREEDOM!

Her rallying signal she blows:

Come, gather around her broad banner,

And battle 'gainst Liberty's foes.

Our forefathers plighted their honor,

Their lives and their property, too,

To maintain in defiance of Britain,

Their principles, righteous and true.

We'll show to the world we are worthy

The blessings our ancestors
won,

And finish the temple of Freedom,

That HANCOCK and FRANKLIN begun.

Hurra, for the old-fashioned doctrine,

That men are created all
free!

We ever will boldly maintain
it,

Nor care who the tyrant may be.

When Poland was fighting for freedom,

Our voices went over the sea,

To bid her God-speed in the contest—

That Poland, like us, might be free.

When down-trodden Greece had up-risen,

And baffled the Mahomet crew;

We rejoiced in the glorious issue,

That Greece had her liberty, too.

Repeal, do we also delight in

Three cheers for the "gem of the sea!"

And soon may the bright day be dawning,

When Ireland, like us, shall be free.

Like us, who are foes to oppression;

But not like America now.
With shame do we blush to confess it,

Too many to slavery bow.

We're foes unto wrong and oppression,

No matter which side of the sea;

And ever intend to oppose them,

Till all of God's image are
free.

Some tell us because men are colored,

They should not our sympathy share;

We ask not the form or complexion—

The seal of our Maker is there!

Success to the old-fashioned doctrine,

That men are created all
free!

And down with the power of the despot,

Wherever his strongholds
may be.

We're proud of the name of a freeman,

And proud of the character,
too;

And never will do any action,

Save such as a freeman may do.

We'll finish the Temple of Freedom,

And make it capacious within,

That all who seek shelter may find it,

Whatever the hue of their skin.

For thus the Almighty designed It,

And gave to our fathers the plan;

Intending that liberty's blessings,

Should rest upon every man.

Then up with the cap-stone and cornice,

With columns encircle its wall,

Throw open its gateway, and make it

A HOME AND A REFUGE FOR

She sings by her wheel at that low cottage door,

Which the long evening shadow is stretching before;
With a music as sweet as the music which seems Breathed softly and faint in the ear of our dreams!

How brilliant and mirthful the light of her eye, Like a star glancing out from the blue of the sky!
And lightly and freely her dark tresses play O'er a brow and a bosom as lovely as they!

Who comes in his pride to that low cottage-door—
The haughty and rich to the humble and poor?
'Tis the great Southern planter—the master who waves His whip of dominion o'er hundreds of slaves.

"Nay, Ellen—for shame! Let those Yankee fools spin, Who would pass for our slaves with a change of their skin; Let them toil as they will at the loom or the wheel,
Too stupid for shame, and too vulgar to feel!

"But thou art too lovely and precious a gem
To be bound to their burdens and sullied by them—

For shame, Ellen, shame!—cast thy bondage aside,

And away to the South, as my blessing and pride.

"Oh, come where no winter thy footsteps can wrong,

But where flowers are blossoming all the year long,

Where the shade of the palm tree is over my home,

And the lemon and orange are white in their bloom!

"Oh, come to my home, where my servants shall all

Depart at thy bidding and come at thy call;

They shall heed thee as mistress with trembling and awe,

And each wish of thy heart shall be felt as a law."

Oh, could ye have seen her—that pride of our girls—

Arise and cast back the dark wealth of her curls,

With a scorn in her eye which the gazer could feel,

And a glance like the sunshine that flashes on steel!

"Go back, haughty Southron! thy treasures of gold

Are dim with the blood of the hearts thou hast sold!

Thy home may be lovely, but round it I hear The crack of the whip and the footsteps of fear!

"And the sky of thy South may be brighter than ours,
And greener thy landscapes, and fairer thy flowers;
But, dearer the blast round our mountains which raves, Than the sweet summer zephyr which breathes over slaves!

"Full low at thy bidding thy negroes may kneel,
With the iron of bondage on spirit and heel;
Yet know that the Yankee girl sooner would be In fetters with them, than in freedom with thee!"

Then rally! then rally! come one and

With harness well girded, and echo the call.

Thy hill-tops, New England, shall leap at the cry,
And the prairie and far distant south shall reply;
It shall roll o'er the land till the farthermost glen Gives back the glad summons again and again.

Oppression shall hear in its temple of blood,
And read on its wall the handwriting of God;
Niagara's torrent shall thunder it forth, It shall burn in the sentinel star of the North.

It shall blaze in the lightning, and speak in the thunder, Till Slavery's fetters are riven asunder, And freedom her rights has triumphantly won,
And our country her garments of beauty put on.

Then huzza, then huzza, Truth's glittering falchion for freedom
we draw.

Let them blacken our names, and pursue us with ill,
We bow at thy altar, sweet liberty still!
As the breeze f'm the mountain sweeps over the river, So, changeless and free, shall our thoughts be, for ever.

Then on to the conflict for freedom and truth;
Come Matron, come Maiden, come Manhood and youth, Come gather! come gather! come one and come all,
And soon shall the altars of Slavery fall.

The forests shall know it, and lift up their voice,
To bid the green prairies and valleys
rejoice;
And the "Father of Waters," join Mexico's sea,
In the anthem of Nature for millions set
free.

Then huzza! then huzza!

Truth's glittering falchion for freedom
we draw.

Be kind to each other.

BY CHARLES SWAIN.

Be kind to each other!
The night's coming on,
When friend and when brother
Perchance may be gone!
Then 'midst our dejection, How sweet to have earned The blest recollection, Of kindness—returned!

When day hath departed,
And memory keeps
Her watch, broken-hearted, Where all she loved sleeps!
Let falsehood assail not,
Nor envy disprove—Let trifles prevail not Against those ye love!

Nor change with to-morrow,
Should fortune take wing,
But the deeper the sorrow,
The closer still cling!
Oh! be kind to each other!
The night's coming on,
When friend and when brother
Perchance may be gone.

A poor wayfaring man of grief,

Hath often crossed me on my way,
Who sued so humbly for relief,

That I could never answer nay;

I had not power to ask his name,

Whither he went or whence he came;

Yet there was something in his eye,

Which won my love, I knew not why.

Once, when my scanty meal was spread,

He entered—not a word he spake—Just perishing for want of bread,

 I gave him all; he blessed it, brake,
And ate, but gave me part
again:
Mine was an angel's portion then,
For while I fed with eager haste,
The crust was manna to my taste.

'Twas night. The floods were out, it blew

 A winter hurricane aloof:
I heard his voice abroad, and flew

 To bid him welcome to my roof;
I warmed, I clothed, I cheered my guest,
I laid him on my couch to rest:
Then made the ground my bed and seemed In Eden's garden while I dreamed.

I saw him bleeding in his chains,

 And tortured 'neath the driver's lash,
His sweat fell fast along the plains,

 Deep dyed from many a fearful gash:

But I in bonds remembered him,
And strove to free each fettered limb,
As with my tears I washed his blood,
Me he baptized with mercy's flood.

I saw him in the negro pew, His head hung low upon his breast,
His locks were wet with drops of dew, Gathered while he for entrance pressed Within those aisles, whose courts are given That black and white may reach one heaven;
And as I meekly sought his feet,
He smiled, and made a throne my seat.

In prison I saw him next condemned
To meet a traitor's doom at morn;
The tide of lying tongues I stemmed,
And honored him midst shame and scorn.
My friendship's utmost zeal to try,
He asked if I for him would

die;
The flesh was weak, my blood ran chill, But the free spirit cried, "I will."

Then in a moment to my view,
The stranger darted from disguise;
The tokens in his hands I knew,
My Saviour stood before my eyes!
He spoke, and my poor name he named—
"Of me thou hast not been ashamed, These deeds shall thy memorial be;
Fear not, thou didst them unto me."

Tyrants tremble in your citadel! oppression shall be o'er.

We will vote for Birney,
We will vote for Birney,
We're for Morris and for Birney,
And for Freedom through the land.

We have hatred, dark and deep, for the fetter and the thong;

We bring light for prisoned spirits, for the captive's wail a song;
We are coming, we are coming! and, "No league with tyrant man," Is emblazoned on our banner, while Jehovah leads the van!

We will vote for Birney,
We will vote for Birney,
We're for Morris and for Birney,
And for Freedom through the land!

We are coming, we are coming! but we wield no battle brand:
We are armed with truth and justice, with God's charter in our hand,
And our voice which swells for freedom—freedom now and ever more—Shall be heard as ocean's thunder, when they burst upon the shore!

We will vote for Birney,
We will vote for Birney,
We're for Morris and for Birney,
And for Freedom through the land.

Be patient, O, be patient! ye suffering ones of earth!
Denied a glorious heritage—our common right by birth;
With fettered limbs and spirits, your battle shall be won!
O be patient—we are coming! suffer on, suffer on!

We will vote for Birney,
We will vote for Birney,
We're for Morris and for Birney,
And for Freedom through the land.

We are coming, we are coming! not as comes the tempest's wrath, When the frown of desolation sits brooding o'er its path;
But with mercy, such as leaves his holy signet-light upon
The air in lambent beauty, when the darkened storm is gone.

We will vote for Birney,
We will vote for Birney,
We're for Morris and for Birney,
And for Freedom through the land.

O, be patient in your misery! be mute in your despair!
While your chains are grinding deeper, there's a voice upon the air!
Ye shall feel its potent echoes, ye shall hear its lovely sound, We are coming! we are coming! bringing freedom to the bound!

We will vote for Birney,
We will vote for Birney,
We're for Morris and for Birney,
And for Freedom through the land.

The image shows a musical score for a piano piece. It consists of two systems of music, each with a treble and bass staff joined by a brace. The key signature is one flat (B-flat) and the time signature is 2/4. The first system of music has the lyrics: 'Sister, thou art worn and weary, Toiling for another's gain;' on the treble staff and 'Thou must rise at dawn of light, And thy daily task pursue,' on the bass staff. The second system of music has the lyrics: 'Life with thee is dark and dreary, Filled with wretchedness and pain,' on the treble staff and 'Till the darkness of the night Hide thy labors from thy view.' on the bass staff. The music is written in a simple, accessible style with many chords and some melodic lines.

Sister, thou art worn and weary, Toiling for another's gain;
Thou must rise at dawn of light, And thy daily task pursue, Life with thee is dark and dreary, Filled with wretchedness and pain, Till the darkness of the night Hide thy labors from thy view.

Sister, thou art worn and weary,
 Toiling for another's gain; Life with thee is dark and dreary,
 Filled with wretchedness and pain, Thou must rise at dawn of light,

And thy daily task pursue, Till the darkness of the night Hide thy labors from thy view.

Oft, alas! thou hast to bear Sufferings more than tongue can tell;
Thy oppressor will not spare, But delights thy griefs to swell;
Oft thy back the scourge has felt,
Then to God thou'st raised the cry
That the tyrant's heart he'd melt Ere thou should'st in tortures die.

Injured sister, well we know That thy lot in life is hard;
Sad thy state of toil and wo, From all blessedness debarred; While each sympathizing heart Pities thy forlorn distress;
We would sweet relief impart, And delight thy soul to bless.

And what lies within our power
We most cheerfully will do,
That will haste the blissful
hour

Fraught with news of joy to you;
And when comes the happy day
That shall free our captive friend,
When Jehovah's mighty sway Shall to slavery put an end:

Then, dear sister, we with thee Will to heaven direct our voice;
Joyfully with voices free We'll in lofty strains
rejoice;
Gracious God! thy name we'll bless,
Hallelujah evermore, Thou hast heard in righteousness,
And our sister's griefs are o'er.

The rank is but the guinea's stamp,
The man's the gowd, for a'
that.

What though on homely fare
we dine,
Wear hodden gray and a'
that,
Gie fools their silks, and knaves their wine,
A man's a man for a' that;
The honest man tho' e'er so poor,
Is king o' men for a' that;
The rank is but the guinea's
stamp,
The man's the gowd for a'
that.

Then let us pray that come it may,

As come it will, for a' that,
That sense and worth, o'er a'
the earth,

May bear the gree, and a'
that;

For a' that, and a' that,

It's coming yet, for a' that,
That man to man, the world all o'er

Shall brothers be, for a'
that.

Terms explained:—Gowd—gold.

Hodden—homespun, or mean.

Gree—honor, or victory.

The Poor Voter's Song.

Air, "Lucy Long."

They knew that I was poor,
And they thought that I was base;
They thought that I'd endure To be covered with disgrace;
They thought me of their tribe,
Who on filthy lucre doat,
So they offered me a bribe For my vote, boys! my vote!
O shame upon my betters, Who would my conscience buy!
But I'll not wear their fettters,
Not I, indeed, not I!

My vote? It is not mine
To do with as I will;
To cast, like pearls, to swine,
To these wallowers in ill.
It is my country's due,
And I'll give it, while I can,
To the honest and the true,
Like a man, like a man!
O shame, &c.

No, no, I'll hold my vote,
As a treasure and a trust,
My dishonor none shall quote, When I'm mingled with the dust;
And my children when I'm
gone,
Shall be strengthened by the thought,
That their father was not one
To be bought, to be bought!
O shame, &c.

The Flying Slave.

FROM THE BANGOR GAZETTE.

AIR:—"To Greece we give our shining blades."

The night is dark, and keen the air,
And the Slave is flying to be
free;
His parting word is one short prayer:
Oh God, but give me Liberty!
Farewell—farewell:
Behind I leave the whips and
chains,
Before me spreads sweet Freedom's plains.

One star shines in the heavens above
That guides him on his lonely way;—
Star of the North—how deep his love
For thee, thou star of Liberty!
Farewell—farewell:
Behind he leaves the whips and chains, Before him spreads sweet Freedom's plains.

For the Election.

TUNE:—'Scots wha hae with Wallace bled.'

Ye who know and do the right,
Ye who cherish honor bright, Ye who worship love and light,

Choose your side to-day.
Succor Freedom, now you can,
Voting for an honest man;
Or you may from Slavery's span,

Pick a Polk or Clay.

Boasts your vote no higher aim,
Than between two blots of shame
That would stain our country's fame,

Just to choose the least?
Let it sternly answer no!
Let it straight for Freedom go; Let it swell the winds that blow

From the north and east.

Blot!—the smaller—is a curse Blighting conscience, honor, purse;
Give us any, give the worse,

'Twill be less endured.
Freemen, is it God who wills
You to choose, of foulest ills,
That which only latest kills?
No; he wills it cured.

Do your duty, He will aid; Dare to vote as you have prayed;
Who e'er conquered, while his blade

Served his open foes.
Right established, would you see?
Feel that you yourselves are
free;
Strike for that which ought to be—

God will bless the blows.

Hail the Day!

AIR:—"Wreathe the bowl."

Hail the day
Whose joyful ray Speaks of emancipation!
The day that broke Oppression's yoke—
The birth-day of a nation!

When England's might Put forth for right, Achieved a fame more glorious Than armies tried,
Or navies' pride,
O'er land and sea victorious!

Soon may we gain An equal name
In honor's estimation!
And righteousness Exalt and bless
Our glorious happy nation!

Brave hearts shall lend Strong hands to rend Foul slavery's bonds asunder, And liberty
Her jubilee
Proclaim, in tones of thunder!

We hail afar

Fair freedom's star, Her day-star brightly glancing;

We hear the tramp
From freedom's camp, Assembling and advancing!

No noisy drum
Nor murderous gun,
No deadly fiends contending;
But love and right
Their force unite,
In peaceful conflict blending.

Fair freedom's host,
In joyful boast,
Unfolds her banner ample!
With Channing's fame,
And Whittier's name,
And BIRNEY'S bright example!

Come join your hands With freedom's bands, New England's sons and daughters!
Speak your decree—
Man shall be free—
As mountains, winds and waters!

And haste the day
Whose coming ray Speaks our emancipation!
Whose glorious light, Enthroning right, Shall bless and save the nation!

(From the Globe.)

The Ballot.

BY J.E. DOW.

Air, "Bonnie Doon," page 54.

Dread sovereign, thou! the chainless WILL—

Thy source the nation's mighty heart—

The ballot box thy cradle still

Thou speak'st, and nineteen millions start;

Thy subjects, sons of noble sires;

Descendants of a patriot
band—

Thy lights a million's household fires—

Thy daily walk, my native land.

And shall the safeguard of the
free,

By valor won on gory
plains,

Become a solemn mockery

While freemen breathe and virtue reigns?

Shall liberty be bought and sold

By guilty creatures clothed with power?

Is HONOR but a name for GOLD, And PRINCIPLE A WITHERED FLOWER?

The parricide's accursed steel Has pierced thy sacred sovereignty;
And all who think, and all who feel,
Must act or never more be
free.
No party chains shall bind us here;
No mighty name shall turn the blow:
Then, wounded sovereignty,
appear,
And lay the base apostates low.

The wretch, with hands by murder red,
May hope for mercy at the last;
And he who steals a nation's bread,
May have oblivion's statute passed.
But he who steals a sacred right,
And brings his native land to scorn, Shall die a traitor in her sight, With none to pity or to mourn.

The Spirit of the Pilgrims.

Tune, "Be free, Oh man, be free," page 134.

The spirit of the Pilgrims
Is spreading o'er the earth,
And millions now point to the land Where Freedom had her birth:
Hark! Hear ye not the earnest cry That peals o'er every wave?
"God above,
In thy love,
O liberate the slave!"

Ye heard of trampled Poland,
And of her sons in chains, And noble thoughts flashed through your minds
And fire flowed through your veins.
Then wherefore hear ye not the cry That breaks o'er land and sea?—
"On each plain,
Rend the chain,
And set the captive free!"

Oh, think ye that our fathers, (That noble patriot band,) Could now look down with kindling joy,
And smile upon the land?
Or would a trumpet-tone go forth,
And ring from shore to shore;—
"All who stand,
In this land,
Shall be free for evermore!"

Great God, inspire thy children,
And make thy creatures just,
That every galling chain may fall,
And crumble into dust:
That not one soul throughout the land
Our fathers died to save,
May again,
By fellow-men,
Be branded as a Slave!

What Mean Ye?

TUNE—'Ortonville.'

What mean ye that ye bruise and bind

My people, saith the Lord,
And starve your craving brother's mind,
Who asks to hear my word?

What mean ye that ye make them toil;

Through long and dreary years,
And shed like rain upon your soil
Their blood and bitter tears?

What mean ye, that ye dare to rend

The tender mother's heart?
Brothers from sisters, friend from friend, How dare you bid them
part?

What mean ye when God's bounteous hand,

To you so much has given,
That from the slave who tills your land, Ye keep both earth and heaven?

When at the judgment God shall call,

Where is thy brother? say, What mean ye to the Judge of all

To answer on that day?

Hymn for Children.

AIR:—"Miss Lucy Long."

BY W.S. ABBOTT.

While we are happy here,
In joy and peace and love, We'll raise our hearts, with holy fear,
To thee, great God, above.

God of our infant hours!
The music of our tongues,
The worship of our nobler powers,
To thee, to thee belongs.

The little, trembling slave Shall feel our sympathy; O God! arise with might to save,
And set the captive free.

No parent's holy care Provides for him repose, But oft the hot and briny tear,
In sorrow freely flows.

The God of Abraham praise;
The curse he will remove;
The slave shall welcome happy days,
With liberty and love.

Pray without ceasing, pray, Ye saints of God Most High,
That all who hail this glorious day,
May have their liberty.

Liberty Glee.

TUNE:—" The Pirate's Glee."

March on! march on! we love
the Liberty flag,

That's waving o'er our land;
As fearless as the eagle soaring

O'er the cloud-capped mountain crag, Slavery in terror flies before us;

We fling our banner to the blast;
It there shall float triumphant o'er us,

We will defend it to the last.

March on! march on, &c.

Vote on! vote on, we hail the Liberty flag,

That leads us on our way;
We'll boldly vote, our country saving,

And bravely conquer while we may.

The world is up—for freedom moving,

The thunders' distant roar we hear—

From land to land the free are calling,

And slaves with joy and rapture hear.

Vote on! vote on, &c.

March on! March on!

TUNE:—" The Pirate's Glee."

March on! march on, ye friends of freedom for all,
 For truth and right contend;
Be ever ready at humanity's call,
 Till tyrant's power shall end.
The proud slave-holders rule the nation,
 The people's groans are loud and long;
Arouse, ye men, in every station,
 And join to crush the power of wrong.
—March on, etc.

Fight on! fight on, ye brave till victory's won,
 And justice shall prevail;
Till all shall feel the rays of liberty's sun, Streaming o'er hill and dale.
The tyrants know their guilt and tremble,
 The glowing light of truth they fear;
Then let them all their hosts assemble,
 And Slavery's dreadful sentence hear.
 Fight on! fight on, &c.

Roll on! roll on, ye brave, the liberty car,
 Our country's name to save;
Soon shall our land be known to nations
afar,
 As the home of the free and brave.
The voice of freemen loud hath spoken,
 A brighter day we soon shall see;
When Slavery's chains shall all be broken,

And all the captive millions free.
Roll on, roll on, &c.

FOOTNOTES

[1] An African prince having arrived in England, and having been asked what he had given for his watch, answered, "What I will never give again—I gave a fine boy for it."

[2] This song is said to be sung by Slaves, as they are chained in gangs, when parting from friends for the far off South—children taken from parents, husbands from wives, and brothers from sisters.

[3] Clay's body servant.

[4] Scene in the nether world—purporting to be a conversation between the departed ghost of a Southern slaveholding clergyman, and the devil!

[5] As sung by G.W.C. at the erection of the monument to the memory of Myron Holley, Mount Hope, Rochester. It may be sung as a Dirge.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.
