9TO BELGIUM

Our tears, our songs, our laurels—what are these

To thee in thy Gethsemane of loss,

Stretched in thine unimagined agonies

On Hell's last engine of the Iron Cross.

For such a world as this that thou shouldst die

Is price too vast—yet, Belgium, hadst thou sold

Thyself, O then had fled from out the earth

Honour for ever, and left only Gold.

Nor diest thou—for soon shalt thou awake,

And, lifted high on our victorious shields,

Watch the new sunrise driving for your sons

The hated German shadow from your fields.

10“British colonists resident in London volunteer, and not even silk hats are doffed before training begins”

—New York Times

11THE SILK-HAT SOLDIER

I saw him in a picture, and I felt I'd like to cry—

He stood in line,

The man “for mine,”

A tall silk-hatted “guy”—

Right on the call,

Silk hat and all,

He'd hurried to the cry—

For he loves England well enough for England to die.

I've seen King Harry's helmet in the Abbey hanging high—

The one he wore

At Agincourt;

12But braver to my eye

That city toff

Too keen to doff

His stove-pipe—bless him—why?

For he loves England well enough for England to die.

And other fellows in that line had come too on the fly,

 Their joys and toys,

 Brave English boys,

For good and all put by;

 O you brave best,

 Teach all the rest

How pure the heart and high

When one loves England well enough for England to die.

One threw his cricket-bat aside, one left the ink to dry;

13 All peace and play

 He's put away,

And bid his love good-bye—

 O mother mine!

 O sweetheart mine!

No man of yours am I—

If I love not England well enough for England to die.

I guess it strikes a chill somewhere, the bravest won't deny,

 All that you love,

Away to shove,
And set your teeth to die;
But better dead,
When all is said,
Than lapped in peace to lie—
If we love not England well enough for England to die.

14THE CRY OF THE LITTLE PEOPLES

The Cry of the Little Peoples went up to God in vain;

The Czech and the Pole, and the Finn, and the Schleswig Dane:

We ask but a little portion of the green, ambitious earth;

Only to sow and sing and reap in the land of our birth.

We ask not coaling stations, nor ports in the China seas,

We leave to the big child-nations such rivalries as these.

15We have learned the lesson of Time, and we know three things of worth;

Only to sow and sing and reap in the land of our birth.

O leave us little margins, waste ends of land and sea,

A little grass, and a hill or two, and a shadowing tree;

O leave us our little rivers that sweetly catch the sky,

To drive our mills, and to carry our wood, and to ripple by.

Once long ago, as you, with hollow pursuit of fame,

We filled all the shaking world with the sound of our name,

16But now are we glad to rest, our battles and boasting done,

Glad just to sow and sing and reap in our share of the sun.

Of this O will ye rob us,—with a foolish mighty hand,
Add with such cruel sorrow, so small a land to your land?
So might a boy rejoice him to conquer a hive of bees,
Overcome ants in battle,—we are scarcely more mighty than these—
So might a cruel heart hear a nightingale singing alone,
And say, “I am mighty! See how the singing stops with a stone!”
17Yea, he were mighty indeed, mighty to crush and to gain;
But the bee and the ant and the bird were the mighty of brain.
And what shall you gain if you take us and bind us and beat us with thongs,
And drive us to sing underground in a whisper our sad little songs?
Forbid us the very use of our heart's own nursery tongue—
Is this to be strong, ye nations, is this to be strong?
Your vulgar battles to fight, and your grocery conquests to keep,
For this shall we break our hearts, for this shall our old men weep?
18What gain in the day of battle—to the Russ, to the German, what gain,
The Czech, and the Pole, and the Finn, and the Schleswig Dane?
The Cry of the Little Peoples goes up to God in vain,
For the world is given over to the cruel sons of Cain;
The hand that would bless us is weak, and the hand that would break us is strong,

And the power of pity is nought but the power of a song.

The dreams that our fathers dreamed to-day are laughter and dust,

And nothing at all in the world is left for a man to trust;

19Let us hope no more, or dream, or prophesy, or pray,

For the iron world no less will crash on its iron way;

Yea! nothing is left but to watch, with a helpless, pitying eye,

The kind old aims for the world, and the kind old fashions die.

20THE ILLUSION OF WAR

War

I abhor,

And yet how sweet

The sound along the marching street

Of drum and fife, and I forget

Wet eyes of widows, and forget

Broken old mothers, and the whole

Dark butchery without a soul.

Without a soul—save this bright drink

Of heady music, sweet as hell;

And even my peace-abiding feet

Go marching with the marching street,

21For yonder, yonder goes the fife,

And what care I for human life!

The tears fill my astonished eyes

And my full heart is like to break,
And yet 'tis all embannered lies,
A dream those little drummers make.
O it is wickedness to clothe
Yon hideous grinning thing that stalks
Hidden in music, like a queen
That in a garden of glory walks,
Till good men love the thing they loathe.
Art, thou hast many infamies,
But not an infamy like this;
O snap the fife and still the drum,
And show the monster as she is.

22CHRISTMAS IN WAR-TIME

This is the year that has no Christmas Day,

Even the little children must be told

That something sad is happening far away—

Or, if you needs must play,

As children must,

Play softly children, underneath your breath!

For over our hearts hangs low the shadow of death,

23Those hearts to you mysteriously old,

Grim grown-up hearts that ponder night and day

On the straight lists of broken-hearted dead,

Black narrow lists no tears can wash away,

Reading in which one cries out here and here

And falls into a dream upon a name.

Be happy softly, children, for a woe

Is on us, a great woe for little fame,—

Ah! in the old woods leave the mistletoe,

And leave the holly for another year,

Its berries are too red.

242

And lovers, like to children, will not you

Cease for a little from your kissing mirth,

Thinking of other lovers that must go

Kissed back with fire into the bosom of earth,—

Ah! in the old woods leave the mistletoe,

Be happy, softly, lovers, for you too

Shall be as sad as they another year,

And then for you the holly be berries of blood,

And mistletoe strange berries of bitter tears.

Ah! lovers, leave you your beatitude,

Give your sad eyes and ears

To the far griefs of neighbour and of friend,

25To the great loves that find a little end,

Long loves that in a sudden puff of fire

With a wild thought expire.

And you, ye merchants, you that eat and cheat,

Gold-seeking hucksters in a noble land,

Think, when you lift the wine up in your hand,

Of a fierce vintage tragically red,

Red wine of the hearts of English soldiers dead,

Who ran to a wild death with laughing feet—

That we may sleep and drink and eat and cheat.

26Ah! you brave few that fight for all the rest,

And die with smiling faces strangely blest,

Because you die for England—O to do

Something again for you,

In this great deed to have some little part;

To send so great a message from the heart

Of England that one man shall be as ten,

Hearing how England loves her Englishmen!

Ah! think you that a single gun is fired

We do not hear in England. Ah! we hear,
And mothers go with proud unhappy eyes
That say: It is for England that he dies,
England that does the cruel work of God,
And gives her well beloved to save the world.

27For this is death like to a woman desired,
For this the wine-press trod.

And you in churches, praying this Christmas morn,
Pray as you never prayed that this may be
The little war that brought the great world peace;
Undazzled with its glorious infamy,
O pray with all your hearts that war may cease,
And who knows but that God may hear the prayer.
So it may come about next Christmas Day
That we shall hear the happy children play
Gladly aloud, unmindful of the dead,
28And watch the lovers go

To the old woods to find the mistletoe.

But this year, children, if you needs must play,

Play very softly, underneath your breath;

Be happy softly, lovers, for great Death

Makes England holy with sorrow this Christmas Day;

Yes! in the old woods leave the mistletoe,

And leave the holly for another year—

Its berries are too red.

[Christmas, 1899—Written during the Boer War.]

29“SOLDIER GOING TO THE WAR”

Soldier going to the war—

Will you take my heart with you,

So that I may share a little

In the famous things you do?

Soldier going to the war—

If in battle you must fall,

Will you, among all the faces,

See my face the last of all?

Soldier coming from the war—

Who shall bind your sunburnt brow

With the laurel of the hero,

Soldier, soldier—vow for vow!

Soldier coming from the war—

When the street is one wide sea,

Flags and streaming eyes and glory—

Soldier, will you look for me?

30THE RAINBOW

“These things are real,” said one, and bade me gaze

On black and mighty shapes of iron and stone,

On murder, on madness, on lust, on towns ablaze,

And on a thing made all of rattling bone:

“What,” said he, “will you bring to match with these?”

“Yea! War is real,” I said, “and real is Death,

A little while—mortal realities;

But Love and Hope draw an immortal breath.”

31Think you the storm that wrecks a summer day,

With funeral blackness and with leaping fire

And boiling roar of rain, more real than they

That, when the warring heavens begin to tire,

With tender fingers on the tumult paint;

Spanning the huddled wrack from base to cope

With soft effulgence, like some haloed saint,—

The rainbow bridge eternal that is Hope.

Deem her no phantom born of desperate dreams:

32 Ere man yet was, 'twas hope that wrought him man;

The blind earth, climbing skyward by her gleams,

Hoped—and the beauty of the world began.

Prophetic of all loveliness to be,

Though God Himself seem from His station hurled,

Still shall the blackest hell look up and see

Hope's rainbow on the summits of the world.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility:
www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.
