Lily Crochet Cottons or
Lily Handweaving Yarns

This luncheon set, illustrated on back page, is made of one color which is the simplest type of work that can be done on the frame, yet the results are most pleasing. The set consists of a center piece, and four or six smaller pieces. The center piece is made with the frame adjusted to the shape shown in Fig. 2. The smaller pieces are made with the frame in the form shown in Figures 1 and 3. Figure 1 shows a frame partially wound with the thread lying in one direction. Figure 2 shows a frame partially wound with the threads extending in two directions. Figure 3 shows a frame completely wound with the threads extending in three different directions, and ready to be tied. Figure 4 shows complete piece.

Throughout these instructions, the corner prongs are always designated as No. 1 prongs.

To commence the winding, the thread is first tied to No. 3 prong on side C, Figure 1. It is then extended to prong 3 on side A, Figure 1. The thread is wound back and forth on these prongs until there are twelve threads between the prongs. The thread is then wound in a similar manner around the next pair of prongs immediately above, and so on, until the third last set of prongs is reached. These threads will all lie parallel to each other, and to two sides of the frame.

The thread is then carried around the outside of the adjacent corner to the third prong from the corner. The thread is then wound around that prong to the corresponding prong on the opposite side. A similar number of threads are extended between each pair of prongs, so that the threads lie parallel to the second pair of sides of the frame.

The winding of the thread in the third position is similar, except that it is wound parallel with the third pair of sides of the frame. This results in the frame being wound in three directions with twelve threads extending between each pair of prongs in each direction.

12 Petal Daisy Design

STEP ONE—in winding frame for twelve-petal daisy design.

SECOND STEP—in winding frame for twelve-petal daisy design.

THIRD STEP—in winding frame for twelve-petal daisy design.

The whole process is then repeated: that is, twelve more threads are wound between each pair of prongs in each of three directions, as aforesaid, making a total of 24 threads extending between each pair of prongs. If a heavier mat is desired, another layer of twelve threads may be added.

When all this has been done, the thread may be tied to the final prong and then cut off. The frame is now ready to be sewed. This is where the shuttle is put into use. As much thread as can be conveniently held by the shuttle is wound upon it, and a foot or so allowed to hang from it. This loose end of the thread is then tied around a corner intersection of three groups of threads on the frame, from the back, and fastened securely.

If you will now study Figure 3, you will find that it is possible to make three distinct loops around these intersections and to tie them from the back of the frame by means of half-hitches. As each one of these intersections is sewed or tied, the craftsman should move clockwise to the next intersection of three groups of threads and repeat the operation around the frame. When the first round has been completed, skip over to the second round and repeat at the end of each round: in this way it will be found unnecessary to break the thread at any time. In fact, the only time that it should be necessary to tie a knot in the thread is when the shuttle is empty. The proper procedure then, is to refill the shuttle and tie the new end to the end of the thread finished and continue sewing.

When the entire frame has been tied, the finished article is removed by simply cutting through the thread as near to the prongs as is possible, with a pair of sharp scissors. Comb out the fringe thus formed and trim evenly.

SPEED-O-WEAVE FRAME

SPEED-O-WEAVE FRAME

The Lily SPEED-O-WEAVE frame is packed in a box—complete with adjusting bolts and shuttle. (Shuttle is pictured at right). Frame consists of six angular sections, each section being provided with a plurality of prongs or fingers adapted to hold the threads. The sections are provided with holes through which bolts, secured by wing nuts, are extended to hold the several sections together.

The frame is assembled from six pieces of angle steel, light, sturdy, easily adjusted to various sizes ... green lacquer finish. Complete with adjusting bolts and shuttle.

Adjustable To 20 Shapes

Many Variations Are Possible

The SPEED-O-WEAVE frame is adjustable to over twenty different sizes and shapes, and the number and variety of pieces it is possible to make by this method is almost unlimited. A few are: luncheon sets, chair sets, doilies, bedspreads, dresser scarfs, pillow tops, handbags, pot holders and dish cloths. It is also possible to do several different types of weaving on the one frame. Endless variations of each type can be achieved by interweaving colored threads to produce colored patterns. The simplest form of work possible on the frame consists of single piece sets with a fringe. In making blocks for joining, as in a bedspread or any large article, the blocks are made without a fringe in order to facilitate sewing them together.

No Skill Required!

SPEED-O-WEAVE—or Hexagonal Weaving—is fast becoming one of the most popular of hand-crafts. This is due, no doubt, to its extreme simplicity and to the fact that it is both inexpensive and very quickly learned. For making SPEED-O-WEAVE designs many yarns or crochet threads can be used. For luncheon cloths, doilies, pillow tops, etc., the finer threads may be used. For rugs, bedspreads, hot dish mats, etc., the heavier yarns would be more appropriate.

Reduced to its simplest formula, Hexagonal Weaving, as done on Lily's SPEED-O-WEAVE frame, is simply the winding of threads back and forth on the prongs or fingers of the frame in such a manner, that the threads lie parallel to three sides of the frame. If the threads are wound parallel to three sides of the frame, they will automatically be parallel with the remaining three sides of the frame, because of the manner in which the frame is constructed. After the threads have been wound in three directions on the frame, they are tied together at their intersections, to effect a complete article.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility:
www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.
