THE REMARKABLE ADVENTURES OF AN OLD WOMAN AND HER PIG.

AN ANCIENT TALE

IN A

MODERN DRESS.

With Coloured Engravings.

LONDON:

GRANT AND GRIFFITH,

SUCCESSORS TO

NEWBERY AND HARRIS, CORNER OF ST.

PAUL'S CHURCHYARD.

THE OLD WOMAN AND HER PIG.

A LITTLE old woman, who lived in a house,
Too small for a giant, too big for a mouse,—
Was sweeping her chambers, (though she had not many,)
When she found, by good fortune, a bright silver penny!

Delighted she seized it, and, dancing a jig,
Exclaim'd, "With this money I'll purchase a pig."
So saying, away to the market she went,
And the fruits of her fortunate sweeping she spent

On a smooth-coated, black-spotted, curly-tailed thing,
Which she led off in triumph, by means of a string.

But how shall I paint her vexation and toil,
When, in crossing a meadow, she came to a stile,
And found neither threats nor persuasions would do
To induce Mr. Piggy to climb or creep through?
She coax'd him, she strok'd him, she patted his hide,
She scolded him, threaten'd him, thump'd him beside;

But coaxing, and scolding, and thumping proved vain,

Whilst the evening grew dark, and 'twas likely to rain.

The dame, out of patience, now cried, in a fright,
To a dog which came up, “Pray, give Piggy a bite,
“And over the stile, Sir, compel him to go,
“Or here I may stay till ’tis midnight, you know.”

This request Mr. Bow-wow, of course, must have heard,

But he silently stood, without saying a word.

“Well, well,” said the dame, “I’ll be even with you,

“Unkindness like this you may happen to rue.”

Then pausing and anxiously looking around,
She saw a stout crab-stick lie flat on the ground.
“Kind stick,” she exclaim’d, “I entreat you to flog
“This cruel, regardless, unmannerly dog,

“Who will not bite Piggy, though plainly you see

“My pig will not stir, and there’s no home for me.”

No reply made the stick, not a blow would it strike,

But crab-stick and cur remained silent alike.

“Well, this is provoking! but yonder’s a fire,
“And now,” said old Goody, “I’ll have my desire.”
The flame she saluted, and cried, “Pray be quick,
“Assist a poor woman, and burn this vile stick,

“For ’twill not beat yon dog, though the cur will not bite

“My pig; and I here may remain all the night.”

In vain to the flame did our sweeper appeal,

For her sufferings it would not, or perhaps could not,
feel.

An opposite element next caught her eye,
And its friendly assistance she therefore would try.

“Dear water,” she said, “do extinguish this fire,

“Which will not (although ’tis my ardent desire)

“Consume yonder crab-stick, which, obstinate too,

“With beating that cur will have nothing to do;

8 “And the dog, as ill-natured, you see, as the rest,

“Refuses to bite this young obstinate beast;

“So here I’m compelled, most reluctant, to stay,

“And here may remain till the break of the day.”

The water regardless of all that was said,

Lay perfectly still,—not an effort was made.

So next to an ox her attention she turn'd,
And telling him how her entreaties were scorned, 9 By the dog, by the stick, by the flame, and the flood,
She said, "I beseech you, great Sir, be so good,

“As to drink up this water, which, every one knows,

“Could have put out the fire with ease, if it chose:

“Oh grant me this favour—do pity my plight,

“Or here in the fields I must stay all the night!”

The ox was unmoved, not an eye would he turn,

Though no flood would extinguish, no fire would burn,

No crab-stick would give Mr. Bow-wow a blow,

Nor would he compel the pig forward to go.

Then kindling with rage Piggy’s mistress cried out,

“Oh! here comes a man, he’ll avenge me no doubt.”

So once more relating her pitiful story,

She said, “In the death of that ox I should glory:

10 “Now therefore, good butcher, the animal kill;

“I’ll thank you, I’ll bless you; indeed, Sir, I will.”

The butcher, however, continued his way,

Without even deigning one sentence to say.

Goody trembled with rage; yet she ventured to hope

A friend was at hand, when she saw a new rope.

So now with clasp'd hands, mournful voice, and bent knees,
She said, "Hang that butcher, good rope, if you please;

“For, though his lawful vocation each day,

“An ox the barbarian refuses to slay.”

She paused for an answer; but hard was her lot,

No help, nor a word of reply could be got.

A veteran rat at this moment drew near,
And quietly stood her entreaties to hear.
So curtseying low,—“I entreat,” said the dame,

“By your grandfather’s beard and your grandmother’s fame,

“By the conquests your father and uncles have won,

“And the deeds which both you and your brethren have done,

“That your worship will not disappoint my fond hope,

“But graciously gnaw and destroy yonder rope,

13 “Which, spite of a moving and melting harangue,

“Refuses that obstinate butcher to hang.”

But ah! in the rat no assistance was found,

And Goody’s last hope seemed to fall to the ground.

But now kind dame Fortune at length interfered,
And a fierce-looking cat in a moment appear'd;
A cat which was hungry, and ready to slay,
For supper, whatever might come in his way.

14 No sooner had, therefore, old Goody repeated

The slights with which all her petitions were treated,

Than Mr. Grimalkin, espousing her cause,

Seiz'd the ill-natured rat in his terrible claws;

“O spare me!” he squeaked, “and the rope I’ll destroy;”

But when he began his sharp teeth to employ,

The rope to hang up the cross butcher prepar'd;

And the butcher, that moment, most terribly scar'd,

At the head of the ox aim'd a death-giving blow;

But submission is better than death we all know:

So away, at full speed, the wise animal ran

To drink up the water.—The water began

The flame to extinguish: but now 'twas the turn

Of the fire the ill-natured crab-stick to burn.

“Hold, hold,” said the stick, “I am going to flog,
“Most soundly that obstinate cur of a dog.”

“But, Sir,” said the dog, in a terrible fright,

“The old lady’s pig I’m preparing to bite.”

This proved to be true, and his bite was severe:

“Oh, oh!” cried the pig, “I must not remain here;”

So over the stile he thought proper to get,

And Goody no more had occasion to fret;

For the pig to his sty was now easily led,

And she put him a trough, and clean straw for a bed:

16 Then fastened the door and wish’d him good night.

The pig gave a grunt, as he could not speak right.

The old dame went into her neat little house,
And is now safe in bed, and as snug as a mouse.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility:
www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.
